OPEN MEETING TOO LATE FOR PUBLIC

Mill Valley Councilmen Announce Session Of 'Subcommittee' At San Francisco Hospital

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Two Mill Valley city councilmen were to meet at 12:30 p.m. today in San Francisco's Franklin Hospital in what is believed to be this council's first announced, open "subcommittee meeting" across the bay.

The time was not announced, however, sufficiently in advance to permit interested Mill Valley citizens to cross the Golden Gate to attend.

Councilman William M. Secor announced late yesterday to the Independent-Journal that the council subcommittee studying proposed underground utilities for the city would meet for lunch and that the Independent-Journal and Mill Valley Record were invited.

Secor said he would be present with Councilman George D. Monardo, hospital administrator, and representatives from the Marin offices of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Monardo said today that he will act as chairman in absence of Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks, who heads the subcommittee.

The meeting had been set for today by the subcommittee at its last Franklin Hospital meeting Sept. 11 at which the three councilmen met with utilities representatives and City Mgr. A. E. Almcrants.

Monardo announced the date of the meeting Sept. 16 but at that time did not give the hour nor say it would be open to press or public.

Monardo said the subcommittee would discuss underground utilities for the Miller Avenue and Lytton Square areas as well as for new commercial subdivisions.

Under consideration on Miller Avenue, Monardo said, is removal of wooden utility poles to be replaced by one of three choices: (1) complete underground utilities; (2) underground utilities plus transformers to be placed above ground and "appropriate landscaping," or (3) "streamlined" steel poles with street lighting brackets and three wires at

Still Tension At Tamalpais High School

A white boy reportedly suffered minor razor cuts last night near Tamalpais High School, but there were no other racial flareups on the troubled campus, sheriff's deputies reported today.

"However, the tension is still there," said Sheriff Sgt. George R. Barnes, who is in charge of the Southern Marin beat.

The Saturday night football game with Pleasant Hill High School, which had been scheduled for the College of Marin field has been transferred to Pleasant Hill in Contra Costa County.

MANY ABSENT

Principal Robert Prather said "rowdy outsiders" tend to congregate at games, and the school is taking precautions to eliminate any stage for flareups. He said future night football games may be re-scheduled for afternoons.

Tension is also reflected in the number of absentees from school. Yesterday, about 230 students were reported absent from classes. That is nearly twice the normal number of absentees.

Last night's razor incident came to light when Elliott D. Kirschner, 16, of 715 Spring Street, Sausalito, went to the Sausalito police station to report it about 6 p.m.

He told Deputy Sheriff A. B. Curry he went to the high school to pick up a friend, Charles Bottarini of 151 Woodward Street, Sausalito, about 4:45 p.m.

According to Kirschner, a dozen Negroes had surrounded his friend and were "pushing him around." When Kirschner got out if his car, one Negro cut him with a single edge safety razor blade, he told officers. Kirschner said the cuts, on his face, were superficial and did not require medical attention.

MAILS LETTER

The youth said the Negroes were strangers to him and may have come from across the bay.

About 9:40 last night, rocks were hurled at the fire department buildings in Marin City. However, the culprits could not be found.

Principal Prather announced he has mailed letters to all parents of Tamalpais High School students advising the school is taking "numerous steps to protect students and alleviate the (racial) situation."

Steps include "talk-out" meetings, special teacher sup-

'Rust-bucket' captain

Adolph Oko, 58, Dies Of Heart Attack

Capt. Adolph Sigmund Oko of Point Reyes Station, 58, died in San Rafael of a heart attack last night.

With his wife, Gladys, he came to San Rafael to attend a meeting of the Marin County Historical Society whose members, ignorant of the tragedy, elected him a vice president.

The death was characteristic of Oko's extraordinary career, which was packed with action, adventure and continual search for new things on land and sea.

NO FUNERAL

More than a year ago Oko had arranged that his body go to the University of California for furtherance of medical science. There will be no funeral. Mrs. Oko is the sole surviving close relative.

During recent months Oko's health had seriously failed, the ailment dated to a heart condition for which he underwent an unusual and then new new operation in London six years ago. But he had remained active and intended to leave for England again in November.

Mrs. Oko said her husband became so tired after a series of San Rafael business appointments yesterday afternoon that she urged they return home. He refused because of the historical society meeting, insisting, "I promised to go."

AT DINNER

They were midway through dinner at San Rafael Joe's on Fourth Street when Oko fainted. He was dead on arrival at San Rafael General Hospital at 7:14 p.m.

"Who wants a quiet life?" said Oko in reviewing his career a few months ago. His whole span keyed to his philosophy that "life is a worthy effort, and the greater the effort the more the reward."

Born on the lower east side of New York City Dec. 12, 1904, Oko was a son of the distinguished Russian-born scholar Dr. A. S. Oko, who became editor of several magazines and director of Cincinnati Hebrew Union College Library and Museum.

Oko started a career in art, then was in turn newspaperman, draftsman, advertising and public relations man and seaman, advancing gradually to skipper, and finally real estate broker.

He was a leader in research into the story of Sir Francis Drake's 1579 landing on Drake's Estero, a few miles from where the Okos finally located their home and real estate office.

Mercury Reads 106 In Marin

Summer is over?

The fourth day of autumn may be the hottest day of summer. The mercury climbed to 90 degrees at noon today in San Rafael. Yesterday's reading of 98 tied the record for the year, set Aug. 16, but was far below other readings in the county.

Summer's last fling pushed the temperature up to 106 in Santa Venetia yesterday, with readings of 104 recorded in Mill Valley and 102 in San Anselmo.

A heat wave throughout California was in its third day.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District said at noon it would be one of the worst days of the year for smog, with the oxidant level reaching the eye irritation point throughout the Bay Area except in Marin County.

San Francisco recorded .20 of a part per million of oxidants before noon, and San Jose had .25 compared to only .05 in Marin County. A reading of .15 causes eye irritation.

Monorail Rejected For Rapid Transit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rejecting monorail, engineers designing the Bay Area rapid transit system today recommended adoption of a completely modern vehicular system using metal wheels on steel rails.

The engineers disapproved all forms of monorail as incapable of meeting performance requirements of the transit district.

In a formal report to the transit district board of directors, the engineers declared the time-tested and superior duo-rail system they recommended would do a better job for the Bay Area than any of the other types evaluated. And it would cost less money to build.

They made a particular point of dissociating the recommended system from obsolete transit systems dating back half a century in eastern cities.

"The system will be similar to these only in the fact they too, are based on steel wheels running over steel tracks," the report emphasized. "In the light of technological advances in recent years, all other similarities disappear."

Based on the engineers' recommendations, the favored system will feature:

1. Vehicle — A lightweight vehicle, no more than 800 pounds per linear foot, with advanced mechanical equipment, interior furnishings and air handling controls.

2. Electronic controls — A computer would govern all train operations, with a train attendant to override the controls, and fail-safe features and coupling devices which will make possible minimum headways of 90 seconds.

3. Sound control — A quiet train operation, made possible by an insulated body shell, continuous welded rails, trackside noise barriers, acoustical wheel design and low-noise braking systems.

4. Excellent appearance — Rail structures and station elements which are simple, but aesthetic in appearance.

5. Electrical energy—A self-propelled car, with power from a third rail, rather than an overhead wire.

Grand Avenue Bridge Gets New Design

The State Division of Highways has submitted a new design for the proposed Grand Avenue Bridge across San Rafael Creek, slightly higher than one the Army Corps. of Engineers turned down six months ago.

At that time the Army Engineers acted on protests from property owners that access for boats would be cut off between Grand Avenue and Irwin Street. However, this time the state is also negotiating to buy the navigation rights west of the bridge.

The City of San Rafael has been working to have the bridge built to relieve traffic congestion in the area of the northbound San Rafael offramp of Highway 101.

The Army Engineers issued a notice yesterday that protests may be made on the new bridge design until Oct. 25. Any protest must be submitted in triplicate to the District Engineer, 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco.

The new design calls for a bridge which will be four feet above the water at mean higher high water, and 9.7 feet above water at mean lower low water.

According to executive assistant Jack Grasberger of the Division of Highways, the change will allow small outboard boats through at almost any time. He noted that there is a launching ramp in the block west of Grand Avenue.

Richardson Bay Filling Line Action Is Taken

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today took a step toward halting further filling of the west side of Richardson Bay between the Sausalito city limits and the Richardson Bay Bridge.

The supervisors declared their intention to re-establish pier and bulkhead lines, as shown in the master plan of the area adopted in January, 1960.

The lines were deleted last year to permit members of the county planning staff and property owners in the area to work out a less rigid line beyond which no filling will take place.

Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker commented that "it has resulted in a lot of inaction. Nothing definitive has taken place."

The board also chose one of three ways to halt filling of the area. The county planning commission was instructed to suggest rezoning of the underwater lots.

The other two ways suggested by County Counsel E. Warren McGuire to halt filling were to request action by the Corps of Engineers or for the county to acquire the lots.

Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing landowner George Kappas, said the board's action in setting the "guideline" would put a "paper blight" on Kappas property which extends beyond the lines.

Planning Director D. B. Dobbs described Kappas' property as being "one of the situations out there which is not proper."

The supervisors' unanimous action was in the form of instruction to the county planning commission which will hold a public hearing on the re-establishment of the pier and bulkhead lines.

The board postponed action on an ordinance to regulate permanently moored vessels and arks used as dwellings along the waterfront.

Terra Linda Pool Will Remain Open

Terra Linda's community swimming pool will remain open for two more weeks, directors of the Terra Linda recreation-Parks District ruled last night.

The pool was scheduled to close this week, but "weather permitting" the board extended the season until Oct. 13. Hours for pool use will continue to be 3 to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sundays.

Seven Flee Greenbrae Home Fire

Seven occupants fled a Greenbrae home early today when fire broke out in the living room.

Donald Rogers of Milan, Italy, a guest in the home of David A. Beadling at 99 Corte Fedora, discovered the blaze shortly after 6 a.m. A neighbor telephoned the Larkspur Fire Department at 6:16 a.m.

Rogers aroused Mr. and Mrs. Beadling and their children, John, 14, David, 12, Richard, 9, and Beth Ann, 2.

Fourteen Larkspur firemen with three pieces of equipment finished mopping up shortly after 8 a.m. Kentfield Fire District sent one truck and three men who stood by.

Beadling, systems marketing manager for Burroughs Corp., said the family probably would stay in a motel until the house was repaired.

Damage to house and contents was estimated by Bartram at $3,500.

$5.1 Million Knocked Off Bridge Funds

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Highway Commission has voted to eliminate 5.1 million dollars in funds earmarked for a new approach to the Golden Gate Bridge this year, and blamed San Francisco's 1959 freeway revolt for the cut.

The commission allocated the money to other San Francisco Bay Area projects after State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack said lack of agreement with the city supervisors on a route makes it impossible to do the job in the 1963-64 fiscal year.

Robert B. Bradford, commission chairman, said the state had planned an approach project under the interstate highway system, allowing the use of federal funds.

But, he said, the supervisors refused to agree to an approach linking the Golden Gate Bridge with the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, and instead proposed a crosstown tunnel freeway. The state contended the tunnel route would not be eligible for federal funds.

John Erreca, state public works director, complained that San Francisco had never answered commission requests on the proposal, merely stating instead they wanted a crosstown tunnel project.

The commission divided the approach funds for 3.7 miles of six-lane freeway on U.S. 40 between Vacaville and Dixon, two miles of six-lane Junipero Serra freeway just east of the Saratoga-Sunnyvale Road, and for 9.6 miles of median barriers on U.S. 40 between San Pablo Dam Road and the Carquinez Bridge.

The remainder will be used on interchanges near Livermore.

Dr. James Derbos, the general practitioner who delivered the quints and has been tending them since, said he did not know when the other three would begin feeding by bottle.

Pope Paul Celebrates 66th Birthday

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI celebrated his 66th birthday today in the fourth month of a pontifical reign marked by promises of dramatic change in the Roman Catholic Church.

Last Saturday the pope took a tremendous step in that direction when he served notice he intends to revamp the Roman Curia, considered a stronghold of conservatism within the church.

In his speech, made to the curia itself, the pontiff politely, firmly and clearly said it is the duty of the curia to bow to the will of the pope and carry out his ideas, rather than the other way around.

Lodae Attacks Mrs. Nhu's Criticism

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge today criticized Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu's attack on U.S. junior officers serving here as "cruel" and said "these men should be thanked and not insulted."

It was Lodge's first criticism of President Nog Dinh Diem's outspoken sister-in-law since his arrival here last month and the first time observers could recall that any U.S. ambassador has publicly challenged statements by the ruling Ngo family.

Mrs. Nhu was reported to have said in Rome this week that "the junior officers of the U.S. military mission are acting like little soldiers of fortune . . . They don't know what is going on."

Lodge, in a prepared statement released by the embassy, called this charge "a shocking statement."

"These junior officers are risking their lives every day," he said. "Some of them have been killed side by side with their Vietnamese comrades."

Dominican Right Wing Holds Power

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Rightist, anti-Communist military chiefs held power in the Dominican Republic today after deposing President Juan Bosch and accusing him of leading his country toward communism, economic ruin and war with neighboring Haiti.

Bosch, 54, a liberal intellectual, was expected to be sent into exile in Puerto Rico. But he apparently still was a prisoner.

Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Munoz Marin, a close friend, had expected Bosch in San Juan last night.

FAMILY SAFE

An aide to the governor said he had learned Bosch had been taken to San Ysidro air base nine miles from Santo Domingo. Bosch's wife and young son and daughter already were in San Juan, visiting Munoz Marin's family.

The Dominican military command said Bosch was "surrounded by all kinds of guarantees and considerations."

The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Santo Domingo and a 50-million-dollar aid program.

CALLED ILLEGAL

The Dominican ambassador to Washington, Enriquillo Del Rosario, cabled the junta: "I will not serve an illegal, unconstitutional government."

He told a news conference: "Some of the newly rich businessmen, who were happy at making a profit under the Trujillo dictatorship, have been fighting the democratic government from the start."

The leaders of the bloodless coup summoned Bosch's political opponents to pick a "respectable man" to lead the nation of three million out of what they said was a chaotic state "brought about by administrative indecision."

Birmingham Bomb Called Booby Trap

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Police said that two bombs which jangled the nerves of tension-gripped Birmingham yesterday were meant to kill not scare.

"This was a booby trap," said Police Inspector J. W. Haley. "It was made to kill."

Authorities theorized the first bomb, which did little damage, was designed to draw a crowd of Negroes from surrounding homes. The second bomb, which went off 13 minutes later, was loaded with shrapnel and rigged to deal mass death and injury upon such a gathering. Instead, frightened Negroes stayed inside the houses and the blast cut down a telephone pole, gouged a three-foot hole in the ground and damaged at least eight homes and four cars.

Recent bombings, prior to the two yesterday morning, had brought thousands of angry Negroes into the streets. This time, however, the Negroes were "just plain scared" and wouldn't leave their homes, police said.

More than $76,000 in reward money has been posted for information leading to the conviction of persons responsible for recent bombings.

The two-man presidential team of Kenneth Royall and Earl Blaik, sent here to restore racial peace, met with city leaders yesterday but ran into problems with some Negro leaders.

Negro leaders felt snubbed by not being told when Royall and Blaik would arrive and failed in attempts to contact them. They held a meeting yesterday to decide whether to cooperate with the presidential envoys.

The Rev. J. L. Sare, invited to the meeting, said, "It is easier to see the president than it is to find Royall and Blaik."

"We don't think these men have come into this city in the right spirit," said Dr. L. H. Pitts, president of Miles College.

TAX-CUT MEASURE FACES DUBIOUS FATE IN SENATE

11-Billion-Dollar Decrease Passed By House, 271-155

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed President John F. Kennedy's 11-billion-dollar tax cut bill by a 271-155 vote, handing him one of the biggest legislative victories of his adminiseration.

The battleground immediately shifts to the Senate, where administration forces already have launched an all-out drive for passage this year. The prospects are highly dubious.

If the Senate should approve the bill in its present form, ultimate reductions would range between $100 and $200 a year for most tax-paying families—more in the upper brackets.

The bill won the votes of 223 Democrats and 48 Republicans in the House roll call late Wednesday which capped two days of debate. Opposing passage were 126 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

Just before passage, the Democrats turned back, 226-199, a Republican-backed move to cancel the tax cut unless the president cut back spending below the present rate.

The outcome was a special triumph for Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, who led the fight to prevent defections by Southern Democrats on the showdown votes.

The 11-billion dollar reduction, largest in history, would be shared by practically all U.S. taxpayers. Both individuals and corporations would benefit.

Kennedy has called the measure the keystone of his economic program. He has made it clear the administration has placed its hopes on solving the gnawing unemployment problem through increased spending resulting from the tax cut.

Senate Democratic leaders voiced strong confidence they have the votes to pass the bill eventually. It will remain alive in 1964 if it fails to get through this year.

But the administration is pushing hard for 1963 passage so that the new reduced withholding can take effect Jan. 1. As the House passed the measure, two-thirds of the benefits for individuals would be effective at that time.

The drive for fast Senate action puts the spotlight squarely on Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) Finance chairman, who opposes any tax cut without offsetting spending reductions.

Byrd announced that his committee would begin closed-door briefings on the bill with congressional staff experts a week from today and that they will continue at least a week.

This probably means that Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon will not get a chance to lead off the public hearings until Oct. 14 or 15.

Wishard Brown Named New Promotion Group President

Wishard A. Brown, assistant publisher of the Independent-Journal, yesterday was named president of the Western Region, National Newspaper Promotion Assn.

The action came at the close of a three-day promotion workshop in Cort Madera for which the Independent-Journal was host newspaper.

Brown replaces J. A. McLellan, promotion and public relations director of the Vancouver, (B. C.) Sun. Other new officers are Paula Kent, promotion director for the San Diego Union and Evening Tribune, second vice president; Gene Shaffer of the New York Times Western Edition, first vice president, and Robert Bertsch, promotion manager of the Eugene (Ore.) Register-Guard, secretary-treasurer.

Daniel K. Stern of the San Jose Mercury and News, national president of the association, was the final speaker of the workshop. He told promoters at yesterday's luncheon meeting that newspapers are in competition with other news media and must improve their "image."

The annual workshop next year will be held in Southern California. Brown said the exact location will be announced soon.

Copper Pipe Stolen

Theft of 200 feet of copper pipe and some drive sockets, valued at $200, was reported to San Rafael police Tuesday by Paul Joseph Louis, foreman for the Walter Louis Plumbing Co. The items were taken from a half-completed home at the end of Lee Drive, Terra Linda.

Public Relations Firm Will Open

A new firm, North Bay Public Relations Consultants, will open an office at 1363 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, on Oct. 1.

The owners, John J. Earley and David E. Brooks, have recently retired from Army service and are Terra Linda residents. Earley, of 926 Las Pavadas Avenue, has been a public information officer for 16 years; Brooks, who lives at 740 Montecillo Road, has been engaged in industrial liaison work in the office of the chief of information at Washington, D. C.

The firm will engage in public and industrial relations work in Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

Stanford Hospital Unit Eyes Open Meetings

PALO ALTO (AP) — Directors of the Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital have agreed to open their meetings to the public—except when the public interest requires closed sessions.

They arrived at that decision yesterday in a closed-door meeting, then opened the doors and said most meetings in the future would be open to anyone. But they reserved the right to hold barred meetings if they feel that would best serve the public.

Many individual and groups had pressed for the open policy, and Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk ruled the meetings should not be closed.

The directors also want to reorganize and run the 21-million-dollar medical center by themselves, without the participation of the Palo Alto City Council and Stanford University trustees.

The board said it felt hampered by the required approval of the council and trustees in running the four-year-old center.

Telephone Lines Cut North From Ignacio

A bulldozer's blade cut a telephone cable serving the entire area from Ignacio north to Santa Rosa at 10:45 a.m. today, but many phone users may never know it.

Gordon Davenport, North Marin manager for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., said the 302-pair cable was cut at Sutro Avenue in the San Marin subdivision adjoining Novato, where grading is under way.

The telephone company's automatic equipment routed calls between points north and south of the break via Vallejo, Davenport said. "Users won't know the difference unless there is too heavy a volume of calls to handle by the alternate routing," he reported.

Telephone company workers hoped to have the break repaired by 2 p.m., Davenport added.

Four Split On Sanity Of 'Bad Boy'

Four psychiatrists, who have testified thus far in the sanity trial for San Quentin "bad boy" Robert Gene Glover, are split 2 and 2 on whether or not Glover was sane when he stabbed another inmate with a brass rod last Feb. 5.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he planned to call another psychiatrist this afternoon. The same jury of eight women and four men, who convicted Glover of felony assault, are hearing the sanity case before Judge Thomas F. Keating in Marin Superior Court.

William O. Weissich, defense attorney, is fighting for the life of Glover. The 32-year-old convict could get the death penalty as a life termer who committed felony assault.

Dr. R. C. Murphy, staff psychiatrist at San Quentin Prison, testified this morning that Glover was sane and knew what he was doing at the time of the stabbing. Dr. J. M. Stubblebine yesterday also testified Glover was sane.

But the defense scored from the testimonies of two other psychiatrists, Dr. Joseph Gutstadt and Dr. Gerald Hill, both of San Rafael. They told the jury they feel Glover was legally insane and not fully aware of his actions during the attack.

promised that things would start to cool off tomorrow, especially along the coast, but said a high pressure area over Nevada is still pumping hot air into the state.

Southern California is suffering the most, with readings yesterday of 107 in Los Angeles and 115 in Palm Springs, hottest in the nation.

The temperature in San Rafael was 90 at noon today, compared to 86 at the same time yesterday. The noon temperature at Santa Venetia today was also 90, and it was 87 at noon in San Anselmo and Woodacre.

Other high temperatures in the county yesterday included 94 in Woodacre and Terra Linda, 92 in Fairfax and Novato, and 86 on top of Mount Tamalpais.

the top to connect the system and transformers. (The third plan is that which was presented at a regular meeting of the San Rafael City Council several months ago by PG&E after objections to a pole line down the center strip of a widened portion of Third Street, and approved by the council for the Third Street strip after discussion during the meeting.)

(Meetings of city councils, the California government code states, shall be held within the corporate limits of the city at a place designated by ordinance. Meetings shall be public.

(Mill Valley, according to City Atty. Leland H. Jordan, has its own ordinance requiring that meetings of its council be held at the Mill Valley City Hall.)

Two San Rafael Girls Hurt In Crash

Two girls were injured in an auto accident at Irwin and Third streets yesterday at 7:50 p.m., according to San Rafael police.

Treated for bruises and cuts at San Rafael General Hospital were Darleen Klapperich, 19, of 201 Center Street, and Marianne Bueschel, 18, of 1836 Fifth Avenue, both of San Rafael.

Police said Janet Aileen May, 20, of 15 Glenwood Drive, San Rafael, was turning into Irwin Street and Miss Bueschel was driving north of Irwin when their cars collided.

OKO

to the sea, Oko nearly lost his life when he was accidentally shot near the spine by a stray Communist bullet during a trip ashore to see China's Great Wall in 1945.

Greatest adventure of his life was his command of the "ancient rust-bucket" Kefalos in carrying refugees and arms to Israel, with his wife as ship's purser.

Oko had earlier been offered command of the Exodus, later to become immortalized in book and film. At that time he was not free to leave their home at Inverness Park, but later the Okos abandoned a half-completed home to go through their most satisfying life experience in delivering 7,737 refugee Jews from Europe to their promised land in 1948.

They also took to Israel its biggest arms shipment, from Mexico under Panama registry.

Not long after their return to Marin County it became evident that Oko's heart condition was grave. The eventual operation by a world-renowed British surgeon gave a new lifelease, and the Okos' visits to England for operation and check-up chanced to coincide with their newest interest in the Drake legend.

Oko intended to spend next Christmas, as they had done before, with friends and fellow-enthusiasts of Drake in Plymouth, England.

The Okos were engaged for the next weekend with Fleet Adm. and Mrs. Chester W. Nimitz, honorary chairman of the Drake Navigators Guild, of which for years Oko was president emeritus.

Oko served on the board of freeholders to draft a Marin County charter in 1957-58, then opposed the charter as it was presented. Marin voters turned it down.

He had been president of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce and the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Assn., director of the California Marine Parks and Harbors Assn., chairman of the legislative committee of the Marin Real Estate Board, and member of the Citizens' Committee for Redevelopment of Marin City.

He was responsible for a number of developments in the Inverness-Point Reyes Station area. Many private benefactions were known only to intimate friends.

A concluding quotation by Oko in an I-J Marin Magazine profile perhaps sums up the man: "None of us is full of light. As prideful human beings we must strive, and we owe life all we can give."

The letter advises parents also: "As a matter of policy we cannot condone absence from school for participation in or attendance at any demonstration regardless of its purpose.

"My foremost purpose is to assure you that the situation, while tense, has been safe and instruction continues.

Market Clerk Booked For Theft

A woman store clerk at Brice Brothers Market at the Bel Aire Shopping Center was jailed last night on suspicion of dipping into the till and pocketing $5 bills.

She is Mrs. Rosemary Marie Holt, 35, of Sonoma, who has been working for the store for two and one-half months.

John D. Rubke, manager of the store, told Sheriff's Deputy Martin Conlin he spotted Mrs. Holt take a $5 bill from the cash register and put it in her pocket.

Deputy Conlin reported the woman admitted taking the money because she "needed it to meet pressing bills." Conlin quoted her as saying she took about $30 in all during the past 10 days.

Booked on suspicion of petty theft, she is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow afternoon.

NEGRO'S EXPULSION IS LABELED FAIR

Mississippi NAACP Leader Says McDowell Put Out Of School Because He Broke Law

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The state field secretary for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said yesterday the University of Mississippi was fair and courteous in expelling its only Negro student, Cleve McDowell, for carrying a pistol.

"Cleve wasn't expelled because he is a Negro," Charles Evers said yesterday. "He was expelled because he broke the law."

Evers, who took over the top NAACP post in Mississippi when his brother, Medgar, was slain by a sniper's bullet last June, appeared with McDowell before the student judiciary council at Ole Miss Tuesday to hear the university's case against the student. McDowell, a law student, was expelled for carrying a 22-caliber pistol on the campus.

Evers praised the council for recommending to university authorities that McDowell be expelled. He said Ole Miss officials "merely upheld the law."

Mormon Rips Benson's Support Of Birchers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressman who 14 years ago was ordained as a Mormon missionary by Ezra Taft Benson today bitterly attacked the former agriculture secretary for his activities in behalf of the John Birch Society.

Rep. Ralph R. Hardin (D-Ida.) said Benson's statements were having a "disastrous" effect on the reputation of the church. Benson is a member of the council of 12 apostles, the ruling body of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the formal title of the Mormon Church.

Terming it the "most difficult speech that I have made during my nearly three years in the House of Representatives," Harding said he was taking the floor because of the love he has for his church.

Harding asserted that Mormons everywhere have an obligation to let church leaders know that they "object to Ezra Taft Benson utilizing the cloak of priesthood of God for the promotion of an extremist ideology which casts aspersions on our elected officials and other fellow citizens and actually hinder the battle against communism."

Four Men Killed In Silo Blasts

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Four men were presumed dead and a fifth presumed dead following a string of explosions that ripped through concrete storage silos i nthe Utah-Idaho Co's seven-million-dollar beet sugar factory yesterday.

Two other men were unaccounted for and seven others injured.

The blasts chopped down two 135-foot silos, leveled off two more about half way up and blew the tops off four others. They apparently were touched off when a spark from a welding torch ignited sugar dust.

A Massachusetts lawyer, George S. Boutwell, was the first commissioner of internal revenue. He later became a congressman and secretary of the Treasury.

Consumer Counsel Charges Deliberate Packaging Mixup

SANTA ROSA (CNS)—Consumer Counsel Helen Ewing Nelson of Mill Valley, who saw much of her programs for reforms in consumer legislation defeated by the 1963 legislature, has charged there is deliberate confusion in packaging of foods which sometimes hides the fact that instant mashed potatoes may cost more than the meat purchased for the same meal.

Speaking to the California association of weights and measures officials here, Mrs. Nelson said housewives are unable to make comparisons in prices because packages are put up in odd weights.

"Today most packages with their odd weights and fractional quantities mock us in our efforts to compare prices," Mrs. Nelson said.

Mrs. Nelson noted legislative approval to require net contents of packages be displayed on the principal panel of the packages.

Mrs. Nelson said a recent test super market shopping showed there were 246 different packages of 14 food items. She said five housewives, each with a college education, were selected to purchase the 14 items at the lowest price per pound possible.

The results showed the housewives succeeded in getting the most weight per money in only 36 of the 70 cases—14 food items purchased by the five women, she said.

SMOG NOT CONTROLLED BY TUNE-UP

Super Job On Autos Might Be One Answer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A tune-up on your car isn't good enough to control the smog the buggy produces. Enter, perhaps, the super tune-up.

The California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board decided in San Francisco yesterday that a regular tune-up won't help.

The board said that tests conducted in San Bernardino on 41 cars showed little difference in smog emissions before and after tune-ups.

BIG SURPRISE

"This certainly was a surprise to us," said Dr. H. P. Sweeney, the supervising engineer for the board.

But the board has a $100,000 contract with San Bernardino's Scott Research Laboratories to study 100 sample automobiles. Now the tests will involve more thorough mechanical techniques.

COST UP TO $85

To put it another way, the super tune-up will cost an estimated $60 to $85 compared to an average of $23.31 for each of the 41 cars already tested.

One interesting fact did come out of the abandoned study.

"We don't find a tremendous variance between the emission levels from new cars and from jalopies," said Sweeney. "There is not necessarily smog where there is smoke."

'BLAST' BY MAYOR—Ottawa's colorful Mayor Charlotte Whitton gives out with a "blast" as she kicks off the 1964 Community Chest Campaign. "I hope this has as good an effect as the last one I fired in civic duty," the mayor quipped Tuesday as she fired a blank cartridge. She was speaking of last year's successful campaign. (UPI photo)

Taxpayer Savings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service says new computers will save taxpayers an estimated 500 million dollars in refunds annually. Refund checks totaling approximately this amount never reach the taxpayer because the post office can't find them.

'Hiawatha' Panned

BOSTON (UPI) — When "Hiawatha" was first published in 1855, it took such a critical thrashing from the Boston Traveler that Longfellow's enraged publisher, James Fields, publicly severed all connections with the offending paper.

Tam Unification Digest Planned

Members of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization last night agreed to make digested information on the proposed Tamalpais unification available to the public in written form.

Members voted to have the office of the county superintendent of schools prepare "factual" information to include such items as tax rates, affect of unification on outstanding bonds, effect on trustees and employees.

But at the urging of representatives of some Marin districts, the committee agreed to give trustees of all districts affected a chance to look at the brochure and comment before it is printed.

The material then would be presented to the various districts for them to distribute if they wish, Edwin L. Blackmore of the county schools office said. It would not be "propaganda" material, he explained, but "unbiased."

It would include information on the county committee's tentative proposal to unify all districts within the present Tamalpais High School District into one district, with one board of trustees and one tax rate covering kindergarten through high school.

But also in the brochure would be some information on other proposals for unification which have been discussed by the committee and would include various other combinations of districts and boundaries.

Some 30 persons attended the committee meeting last night at the Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley, including representatives of most school districts which would be affected by the proposal.

The committee will begin public hearings on the tentative proposal in mid-October, to explain it to the public and hear opinions and counter proposals.

Hospital Costs

CHICAGO (AP) — The average cost for each day a patient spends in the hospital has more than doubled in the last 10 years, increasing from $18.35 to $36.83 a day, the American Hospital Assn. said.

Dean Jennings, Raft Settle Up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A writer suing film actor George Raft for an accounting of proceeds from the sale of his life story has settled out of court for an undisclosed amount.

Raft's life story was recently sold for motion picture purposes.

Writer Dean Jennings of Tiburon said he wrote the story for magazine publication under an agreement made in 1957. He said Raft agreed to pay him 20 per cent of the proceeds if the piece were sold for film use.

Jennings said that Raft sold the story for $25,000 and 10 per cent of the film profits, but has refused to give an accounting.

The suit was settled yesterday.

Steel Imports

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel imports swelled to $2,368,000 (m) tons in the first six months of this year from 2,056,000 (m) tons in the same 1962 period. Industry officials say imports may exceed 4.7 million tons this year, compared with 4.1 million tons in 1962 and the record 4.4 million tons in 1959.

The Year of the Test Drive starts today!

Ford cars have changed. Only a test drive can tell you how much. Races and rallies, economy runs, braking and acceleration tests have bred into our 1964 models the kind of total performance you just can't create on the test track alone. They are hard-muscled, fast-moving, sure-footed. Open competition helped make them that way. They offer you substantially more car than anything at their price. You don't have to take our word for it. We're willing to rest our case on our cars.

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

Clara Barton Award Given Red Cross Aide From Ross

The Clara Barton award, highest honor given by Red Cross chapters, was presented to Mrs. Harry D. Rothrock of Ross at last night's 51st annual meeting of the Marin County Chapter, American National Red Cross.

Mrs. Rothrock, a member of the board and executive committee, has been chairman of volunteers as well as of many committees. She coordinated "Operation Vista" last year. She is chapter secretary and was chairman of last night's dinner.

The award is presented occasionally to a woman volunteer who has given outstanding service over a period of years in more than one capacity.

Mrs. E. Gould Ingram was chosen "Volunteer Woman of the Year." Elias S. Day was named "Man Volunteer of the Year."

These two awards are given to volunteers for outstanding service during the past year, possibly in only one capacity.

Mrs. Ingram's main contribution to the chapter has been through the residential drive for the United Crusade.

She is now chairman of volunteers and a board and executive committee member.

Day is division manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and is first vice chairman. He has headed the home service committee, the personnel committee, and is a member of the board and executive committee.

Because this is the 100th anniversary of the International Red Cross, special centenary awards went to volunteers who have served for many years: Mrs. John S. Kittle, Mrs. E. J. Poyer, Mrs. Lloyd G. Tyler, Mrs. T. C. Wellman and Miss Edith Waterman.

Mrs. Poyer also received a 50-year pin. She has worked in many capacities for many different chapters. In Marin County she has taught first aid for many years.

Other service awards went to Mrs. Tyler, 25 years; Mrs. A. C. Anderson Jr., Mrs. Kenneth McLeod, Mrs. Wellman and Miss Alice McCormick, 20 years; Mrs. Lawrence T. Corti, Mrs. Julius Jacobson and George Gustafson, 15 years and Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. Marie Fenner, John R. Fitzhenry, Miss Jean Gustafson and Mrs. G. B. Kenny, 10 years.

New board members were elected during the annual business meeting. They are: Mrs. George E. B. Hill, Mrs. Harry Colmery, Mrs. Douglas B. Cummings, William O. Weissich, Carl Gromme, Mrs. M. Justin Herman, Daryl Hopkins, Mrs. Bill Adams, Mrs. John C. Kittle, Col. Bryant Anderson, Mrs. Shirley L. Morgan, Mrs. T. C. Wellman and Dr. John McGee.

John E. McInnis, mayor of San Rafael and speaker of the evening, told the members they were "squares" in the finest tradition of the word.

He described the change that has come to the meaning of the word in the past decades from a word indicating loyalty and reliability to its present connotation of some one who is "not hep."

He said that if our founding fathers had not been square the country would not exist today and if Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, had not been similarly square, there would be nothing to celebrate last night.

Jealous Husband Slays Wife, Man; Children Homeless

FREMONT (UPI) — Six children, aged 6 to 13, were in Alameda Juvenile Hall today, left homeless after their jealous father shot his wife and a man to death and then attempted suicide.

Police said Lawrence Totten, 40, Hayward, fatally shot his wife Leola, 36, and Leonard Stidman, 36, Fremont, with a .45-caliber automatic as the couple sat drinking last night at a Fremont hotel.

Totten then went to his pickup truck and shot himself in the head with a rifle. He was in critical condition at Highland Hospital in Oakland.

Police said they found this note in his truck:

"I have insurance at Lockheed. She would not take care of my kids. Call my dad at Lamar, Colorado."

Marine Helicopter Crashes, Killing 3

CAMP PENDLETON (UPI) —A Marine helicopter crashed into a 138,000-volt power line during a military exercise yesterday, killing the three occupants of the aircraft.

Marine spokesmen said the copter was engaged in a troop support mission as part of the 10-day exercise merit badge when it plunged to the ground in Aliso Canyon.

First Steps Taken For Two New Dixie Schools

First steps toward construction of two new schools in the Dixie School District were taken last night by district trustees.

The board agreed to file applications for nearly a million dollars in state loans to finance a junior high school and elementary school, both to be ready for classes in the fall of 1964.

Sale of $430,000 in bonds, part of $1,600,000 issue approved last April by voters, was ordered by the board to bond the district to its legal limit, thereby qualifying for state loans.

A loan of $560,000 will be requested for the Miller Creek School, to be located near Miller Creek Road and Las Gallinas Avenue in Lucas Valley. The 11-classroom building and library will serve 800 seventh and eighth grade pupils.

A second loan of $390,000 will be requested to build the Nova Albion School near Terra Linda High School. The eight-room school will include two rooms for special education classes.

Supt. Dennie B. Willis told the board that if both schools are not ready for occupancy by next year, crowed classrooms and double sessions will result.

The board also reviewed the proposed Twelve Oak subdivision planned on the Pimentel Ranch between Lucas Valley and Terra Linda and decided no school site would be necessary for the presently proposed 321 lot development. A school site may eventually be required, however, and Willis was directed to notify the San Rafael Planning Commission of this possibility.

Dixie trustees also:

1. Set a special meeting next Wednesday to consider agenda items not completed last night, including final consideration of questions about proposed North Marin unification. Willis was directed to compile questions about comparitive costs and possible district combinations not specified in the Booz-Allen and Hamilton report on unification. The queries will be submitted to the county committee on school district organization.

2. Appointed 34 citizens to the district's finance study group, a coninuing committee established to study future district needs. Nine of those appointed were already members.

Fort Louisburg, Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, has been a National Historic Site since 1928. A current restoration project will take in about 20 square miles of historic landmarks and the present fishing town of Louisburg.

Delinquent Marin Tax Lands Sold

Nearly 120 people crowded the Marin County Civic Center Planning Commission hearing room today to bid on 10 parcels of tax-delinquent property sold by the county tax collector.

The county collected $6,525 for the properties, some of which drew heavy bidding. Five other parcels were redeemed for unpaid taxes just before the public auction started at 9 a.m.

Parcels redeemed included land in Larkspur, Mill Valley and Inverness Heights.

Highest single bid was $3,100 for a five-lot parcel on North San Pedro Road near Santa Venetia.

One bidder, Kurt L. Rosenthal of 6 Glen Park Avenue, San Rafael, bought three parcels, two in Fairfax and a 22-inch-wide strip of land in Morningside Court, San Anselmo.

Keen interest was shown by several bidders in a Woodacre lot, formerly owned by the Missionary Society of St. Paul the Apostle. Minimum price set by the tax collector for the lot was $75. It was sold for $1,450 to S. V. Brunetti of 40 Valley Road, San Anselmo.

Las Gallinas Sanitary Board Names Fred Mahr Director

Fred J. Mahr Jr. of 712 Appleberry Drive, Marinwood, was unanimously named as a director of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board last night as board members considered applications for the job for the second time in as many months.

Within five minutes after the meeting was called to order, president Floyd Hovland took up the list of four names submitted to replace director R. N. Sunquist and asked for a vote on Mahr.

The vote was unanimous without any discussion.

Two weeks ago the board was deadlocked between two other candidates for the board. Names submitted besides Mahr's were those of Jack Baken, W. E. Brook, and Charles A. Manning.

Sundquist resigned early in August when he moved from the district. Decision as to the appointment was delayed because of disagreement over candidates.

Mahr, 33, is a project engineer for Matson Navigation Co. in San Francisco. He will serve on the board until elections in 1965.

The board adopted final resolutions for annexation of San Rafael Meadows to the district's sewer system.

A public hearing will be held Nov. 14 prior to the levy of special assessments against properties in San Rafael Meadows to pay the area's share of $39,000 for reconstruction of lines and pumping facilities. The average homeowner will be assessed about $70.

States Sets Hearing On Udall Water Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Water Commission has tentatively set Oct. 18 to hear details of a 1.9-billion-dollar program proposed by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall to avert water shortages in parts of Southern California.

Chairman Ralph M. Brody said yesterday Udall had accepted an invitation to discuss the plan, which includes enlargement of the present state water project, and is designed to help areas dependent on the Lower Colorado River.

State Hopes Girl To Reveal Legislature Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State investigators relied today on the hope that a Los Angeles call girl would talk freely about sex life around the California Legislature.

A three month investigation has linked $100 a night girls with both legislators and lobbyists, Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Charles O'Brien said today. But he said he didn't believe it had produced evidence for criminal action.

Investigators were sent again to talk to the Los Angeles girl, interviewed previously about her night life in the state capital, in the hope she would talk.

The investigators' report is to be submitted in a few days to Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk for decision on what action, if any, will be taken.

55 Families Agree To Support School Buses

Fifty-five families have agreed to help support bus transportation for Redwood High and Neil Cummins School pupils living in Corte Madera east of Highway 101, but at least 45 more are needed, Herbert Leney, president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Assn., said today.

He said 100 signups are needed to keep the price down to about 30 cents a day. Of the families signing applications 39 have children in Neil Cummins and 16 have pupils at Redwood, Leney reported.

Small Girls Hurt In Novato Crash

Two small girls received minor bruises at 5 p.m. yesterday in a two-car crash on South Novato Boulevard north of Rowland Boulevard, Novato police reported.

Collette Courteau, 3, was bruised on the forehead, and her sister, Louise Anne Courteau, 5, on the cheek. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Courteau of 515 Sunset Parkway. Both were treated at Marin General Hospital.

They were passengers in a southbound car driven by their sister Ruth Mary Courteau, 19, of 21 Eugene Street, Mill Valley, which collided with a northbound car driven by Frank Karl McQueen, 33, of 1274 Parkwood Drive, Novato, police said. The Courteau car crossed the center line, striking the McQueen car, police reported.

Galvin Tax Records Confusing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service charged yesterday that multi-millionaire John A. T. Galvin used an "arbitrary" and "confusing" method to determine his incom which resulted in a government claim that he owes 21.5 million dollars in back taxes.

The tax claim is the largest ever filed against an individual.

IRS counsel Charles W. Nyquist said Galvin's tax records were so "meager" that it would be difficult for the government to prosecute its case.

He asked John W. Kern of the United States tax court to require Galvin to submit additional data on his income. Kern said he would take the motion under advisement.

The IRS has charged that taxes are owed for income Galvin received from 1954 to 1957, and for unpaid gift taxes in 1956 and 1957.

Testing Is Finished On New Gun System

CHINA LAKE (AP) — The Navy says it has finished testing the new HIPEG gun system which fires 12,600 rounds a minute from three 20 mm-cannon mounted on Skyhawk A-4 attack aircraft.

Hughes Tool Co.'s aircraft division, developers of the system, said yesterday the impact of shells from the three twin-barrel cannon was equivalent to dropping a two-ton automobile from the top of the Empire State Building on a ground target at a rate of one car per second.

Chief Owen Outlines Tam Fire Training

Sixteen men from the Tamalpais Fire Department are now enrolled in firefighting courses at the College of Marin, Fire Chief Herbert Owen said today.

These include seven paid firemen and nine volunteers.

Owen said drills are held in one of the two fire stations once a week. They were held on Wednesdays but with the college courses, are now held either Tuesday or Wednesday nights and on Saturday mornings.

If a drill is held, a drill report is made out. If men come into the station and train individually, no record is kept.

During the past month, Owen said, turnout for drill has averaged about 15 per meeting. These include three or four volunteers, six or eight civil defense volunteers, and seven paid firemen.

Drill instructor is Richard Oswald, a new fireman. He replaces James B. Gill, one of six firemen who resigned in July.

The chief said he has about 25 volunteers on the rolls but plans to go over the list and divide them into "active" and "inactive" volunteers.

About six volunteers have joined the department since July 15, he said.

Volunteers must be 21 years. Civil defense men can be 16 and are trained under a state program to learn first aid, firefighting and rescue work.

In case of a large emergency, Owen reported, he could count on at least 25 men to turn out in all categories.

Owen said he invites all persons interested in becoming volunteers to see him. "We have one of the most extensive programs in the county in training drills for volunteers," he declared.

Nearby departments report these turnouts at their volunteer drills: Mill Valley, an average of 15, for meetings held about once a month; Tiburon, out of 27 volunteers 90 per cent turn out for two drills, one for each half of the group; Alto, about 12 turn out for once-a-month drills.

Pesticide Report Copies Available

Free copies of county agricultural commissioner Richard T. Straw's report on "Pesticides — Their Usage and Possible Hazards" are available at Straw's office in room 405 in the Marin County Civic Center.

The 13-page report was prepared at the direction of the board of supervisors. It lists pest control methods, chemicals for swimming pools and weed and mosquito abatement programs, and describes dangers in use of poisons for weed and insect control.

Bay Planning Unit To Meet

A legislative committee hearing on regional planning and on filling the bay will be held Oct. 22 and 23 in San Francisco.

The planning subcommittee of the Assembly Interim Committee on Natural Resources, Planning and Public Works will meet in room 1194, State Building Annex, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, to hear from groups interested in the subjects.

Specifically, the committee will investigate use of tidelands, filling of the bay, planning and location of future freeways and regional planning and planning by groups of counties.

Braceros Day Observance Set Saturday

WOODLAND (AP)—Four thousand farm field workers from Mexico have been invited as guests at the Woodland and Yolo County community's second annual Gracias Braceros Day observance Saturday.

A brief program of official speeches and entertainment will be followed by a Charreada or Mexican style rodeo staged by riders and horses of the Charros de California.

The ceremony of appreciation for the crop cultivation and harvest work by the braceros is jointly sponsored by the Woodland Chamber of Commerce and the Yolo County Farm Bureau Federation.

Farm bureau wives have baked 800 dozen cookies to serve with ice cream before the Charreada starts.

Macmillan, Ministers Found Blameless In Profumo Case

LONDON (AP)—Lord Denning has acquitted Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and his government of blame in handling of the John Profumo sex-security scandal.

In a report today on the sensation that shocked the nation, Britain's No. 2 judge branded as "unfounded and untrue" widespread rumors suggesting other government ministers were guilty of moral misbehavior.

Denning conceded in his 50,000-word report that ex-War Minister Profumo's liaison with Christine Keeler "disclosed a character defect which pointed to his being a security risk." He had exposed himself to blackmail, so jeopardizing state secrets, the report said.

Denning was appointed by Macmillan on June 21 to investigate security aspects of Profumo's affair with Miss Keeler who also had social contact with a Soviet intelligence officer naval captain, Yevgeny Ivanov. He also looked into rumors about other ministers.

After citing gossip surrounding certain members of the government—whom he did not name—Denning reported:

"It might be thought that these rumors are a symptom of a decline in the integrity of public life in this country.

"I do not believe this to be true.

"There has been no lowering of standards."

"But there is this difference today," he continued.

"Public men are more vulnerable than they were, and it behooves them, even more than ever, to give no cause for scandal."

Denning then described how scandalous stories about well-known people have become marketable commodities because a few British newspapers—which he did not identify—are ready to publish information of this kind.

The judge disclosed that British security services 11 years ago were transferred from the direct control of the prime minister to that of the home secretary. This was done when Sir Winston Churchill headed the British government and the move was never before made public.

Technically, therefore, immediate responsibility for the security aspects of the Profumo case belonged to Home Secretary Henry Brooke. But because the central figure in the affair, Profumo, was a member of the government, Macmillan personally accepted the final responsibility.

Names of famous politicians and peers and prostitutes punctuated the judge's racy story which still must stand the test of a parliamentary verdict.

Diminutive Teacher Big With Class

FRIEDA GROENVELD
And small fry

DARRINGTON, Wash. (AP)—First-grade pupils in Frieda Groenveld's class can look their teacher squarely in the eyes. She is four feet tall.

Being of a size with her pupils bothers neither Miss Groenveld nor the youngsters.

"Children need an answer," she says, "When you give it to them, that's all they need."

SOME JITTERS

This is her first months as a teacher and Miss Groenveld admits she had the usual opening-day jitters of the new schoolma'm. One boy, clutching his mother's hand, looked the teacher in the eyes and asked: "How come you are so little?"

"I'm as big as you are," said the little teacher as the mother blushed. "Aren't we going to have fun?"

Fun is one of the nice things about being a first-grader here, but there is always order and respect. When Miss Groenveld mounts her kitchen stool—she calls it "my throne"—the class falls silent. Darrington School District officials believe they have found themselves a gem in their new teacher.

'LITTLE LADY'

"I can really say that I've never wished that I were tall," says Miss Groenveld.

"My parents always emphasized that I would have to make my own way without depending on people feeling sorry for me."

After graduation from Seattle Pacific College she came to Darrington out of choice—she was born here, although she grew up in Everett.

Throughout the school she is known as "the little lady." Pupils from the upper grades often drop by to help her with physical tasks, such as posting bulletin board material.

"The thing that matters when people look differently at you," she says, "is how you, yourself, take it.

"If people are going to laugh, I'll laugh with them."

More than 2.6 million Americans are alive today as the result of medical advances achieved since 1944, the National Health Education Committee reports.

Mayor's Council Names Silva, Dyk To Formation Group

Mayor M. E. Silva of Novato and City Councilman Jan Paul Dyk of Sausalito were named by the Marin Council of Mayors last night to represent the county's 10 municipalities on the newly created Local Agency Formation Commission.

City Councilman Charles F. Pendleton of Corte Madera was named alternate.

The council of mayors, meeting at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur, agreed to a suggestion by Mayor Lesly A. Daveler of the host city that city members of the new commission be chosen by areas, with one representative from San Rafael and Novato (north), one from Mill Valley, Sausalito and Belvedere (south), and one from Corte Madera, Larkspur, Ross, San Anselmo and Fairfax (central). They also endorsed the additional motion by Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks of Mill Valley that the three successful candidates draw straws to see who would be alternate.

Mayors and councilmen then caucussed by areas, and Silva, Dyk and Pendleton were elected without opposition. Pendleton drew the short straw.

The Local Agency Formation Commission will rule on all petitions for incorporation and annexation, and on formation of new taxing districts (except assessment districts). If it turns down a proposal, there is no appeal from its decision.

It is to consist of five members: the two chosen last night by the cities, two chosen by the county board of supervisors (who must be county officials), and one chosen by the other four members.

Mayor Sheeks was elected as new chairman of the council of mayors, with six votes to four for re-election of Pendleton for a second year in the office.

Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael was elected without opposition as the cities' member of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission.

City Councilman Sally Matthews of Belvedere suggested the council of mayors also endorse appointment of Margaret M. Azevedo of Tiburon by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as an at-large member of the transportation commission. She has been endorsed for the appointment by the county board of supervisors and the city councils of Belvedere and Mill Valley. However, Vice Mayor Charles W. Aby of San Rafael moved the council of mayors make no endorsement for such appointment, and his motion passed easily.

City Mgr. A. E. Almcrants of Mill Valley reported that only his city has adopted the proposed new uniform animal control ordinance, although it was discussed and approved in principle some two years ago. He noted that the proposed $4 license fee had been reduced by Mill Valley to $3. Mill Valley Councilman George Blackwell, who is also a director of the Marin County Humane Society, said that society now recommends the $3 fee.

City Administrator Douglas Flautt of San Anselmo said reason for inaction on the animal ordinance was that it had not been submitted to city managers for review, as earlier agreed, but had gone directly to the city councils from attorney Leland H. Jordan, who prepared it. Chairman Pendleton directed that it be referred to the city managers.

The council of mayors will next meet in Sausalito on Oct. 30.

The average American white collar worker's salary is now $80 a week, a $3 increase over 1962, according to a National Office Management Assn. survey.

WARREN DEFENDS HIGH TRIBUNAL

Also Declares Reports Of Bickering Among Justices Based On Imaginary Ideas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An atmosphere charged with civil rights issues is responsible for the heavy load of such cases in the U.S. Supreme Court, Chief Justice Earl Warren declared in an unusual defense of the high tribunal.

"Because the very atmosphere in which we live is charged with that subject," Warren said last night, that is "the main reason we have so many civil rights cases these days . . ."

Speaking to the California state Bar convention, Warren said the civil rights ferment "is not confined to our own country. It is worldwide in all its implications."

Warren reminded those who criticize the court for moving too fast on civil rights that it is a court of review, and can't initiate legal action.

He spoke at a dinner in his honor attended by seven of the eight associate justices. Only Justice John Harlan was unable to be present.

Warren, a former Republican governor of California, heard California Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson praise the court for its decisions on exactly the issues that others have harshly attacked, such as segregation and school prayers.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown joined Gibson in deploring "vicious slanders" against Warren by "hate mongers." Brown said he knew "that the bar of this state will give no haven to the John Birch Society, which has become nationally infamous in its efforts to impugn the integrity of one of the greatest chief justices in our history."

The 72-year-old chief justice is the target of a Birch drive to impeach him.

Warren said that those who charge the court with violating states' rights fail to understand that the basic American law as stated in the Constitution aims first at protecting the rights of the individual.

"The acid test of our system is the extent to which our ideals are given concrete reality in the lives of our people. A system of laws, however just, which exisited only in theory could be a slim reed on which to base our claim that here in America justice is within the reach of all."

Turning for the first time to rumors of "terrible controversies" within the nine-man court, the chief justice noted: "Because there is no such charge in the news at the present time, I feel free to say to you that all of them were unjustified by the facts."

Some persons, he commented, "for reasons of their own, have enlarged upon an occasional sharp retort in court or a few caustic sentences in a dissenting opinion to build imaginary feuds that never existed."

FIGHT FOR BEARD—Paul S. Pinot, 40, who teaches government at John Muir High School in Pasadena displays the beard which has caused his suspension from the classroom. Pinot says he'll fight the decision to reassign him to tutoring students at their homes because he refused to shave off his beard. (AP Wirephoto)

Governor Brown May Speak In Marin To Teacher Group

Gov. Edmund G. Brown may be a featured speaker at joint conference of California Teachers Assn. and American Legion members Oct. 4 and 5 in Marin.

The "blue ribbon" committee, comprising members of both organizations, will hold its second annual meeting at the Tomahawk Lodge, north of Novato. Topics of discussion will range from the teaching about communism to the problem of school dropouts.

Robert Kent, Tamalpais High School art teacher and president of the Marin County Teachers Coordinating Council, said Governor Brown is "eager to attend the conference and may speak at the Friday dinner or Saturday luncheon."

Thomas W. Braden, president of the state board of education, will speak on "Our Bill of Rights" at the noon luncheon at the lodge Oct. 5.

Maxwell Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, was also invited to speak but said he had previous engagements. He will be represented by Everett Calvert, his deputy, who will speak on "Economics Courses in California Schools" at the 7 p.m. dinner meeting Oct. 4.

Dewitt Nelson, state director of conservation, and F. H. Raymond, state forester, will conduct a panel on the California youth conservation program during the morning of Oct. 5.

Co-chairmen of the joint committee, which met for the first time last year in Long Beach, are Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, and C. C. Trillingham, Los Angeles County schools superintendent. Both are members of CTA and the Legion.

Two Aides Defend Retirement Plan

The newly adopted retirement program for county employees was defended today by two Marin County officials on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Stanley Fontez, county treasurer and tax collector, defended the plan as allowing retiring county employees enough benefits to continue living in Marin, instead of moving to lower living cost areas.

He called the plan "one of the best in the state" and was backed by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos who strongly favors the plan for his men.

Mountanos noted that nine of the 54 persons in the sheriff's department now are over 60. The plan would allow them superior benefits to the present retirement plan and more favorable benefits than in an alternative proposed by the office of the county administrator.

Asst. County Administrator John Barrows said that since passage of the plan by county supervisors, administrator's personnel would move to implement the policy and are "no longer in the role of publicly supporting alternative proposals."

The plan was attacked by Marion Marks of San Rafael, who has had experience in helping set up a retirement plan for the large company where he was employed. He is now retired.

Marks, who said later he had not read the plan, attacked it as one of the most expensive plans of any county in the state.

Barrows answered that the plan probably would cost $1.30 to $1.40 per year per person (not per taxpayer) and that it would take up about one and one-half per cent of the part of the county budget paid directly by county taxpayers (not the portion which the county gains through state or federal payments for certain services to residents).

The plan will go into operation on Tuesday, barring unexpected negation of their own action by the board of supervisors.

The plan will be in addition to federal Social Security benefits and will be based on the highest salary earned by a person during his employment by the county (instead of the number of years or total accrual of payments during working time.)

It would continue to pay 60 per cent of the former employee's benefits to a surviving widow. It sets a mandatory retirement age of 60 for sheriff's deputies and so increases their monthly payments into the fund through the years.

The total annual additional cost to taxpayers, compared to the plan now in effect, would be $225,000, Barrows said.

The program, including listeners' questions phoned to the station, will be rebroadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday on KTIM, with moderator Kitty Oppenheimer leading the panel.

Village Fair Rebuilding Under Way

Shopkeepers in Sausalito's Village Fair today were cleaning and sorting their merchandise which was damaged in yesterday's $200,000 fire.

Carpenters had arrived to start rebuilding some of the seven shops which were badly burned, including the Village Beer Garden where the fire was reported to have centered.

Acting Fire Chief John L. Terris, however, issued an order that the 48 specialty shops at 777 Bridgeway could not be reopened until at least Monday, since there is no electricity in the building. He added, "We must be absolutely sure, too, that all the water is out."

Terris said the cause of the fierce fire which broke out at 3 a.m. yesterday was still undetermined.

Many businessmen in the concrete building owned by Floyd D. Allensby of San Rafael reported the fire and water damaged newly received fall and Christmas stocks.

Woman Suffers Broken Knee In Ross Crash

Ozella Wimberly was reported in good condition in a Berkeley hospital today with a broken right knee and a broken left leg suffered Tuesday in an auto crash on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Ross.

Asst. Chief John Harris of Ross police said Mrs. Wimberly, 55, of Berkeley, was driving out of the driveway at 131 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when her car was hit by one driven by John Martin Dikran, 28, of 56 Crooked Avenue, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Wimberly's auto shot across the street and knocked down a brick pillar in the fence at the home of Louis Hozz at 138 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Harris added. She was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

Dikran had a slight cut on his knee. Mrs. Wimberly was taken to Marin General Hospital and then transferred to Herrick Memorial Hospital, Berkeley.

College Gym Area Residents Alarmed

Some residents of the College Park subdivision of Larkspur fear that creation of parking lots and playfields of the 15-acre College of Marin gymnasium complex will flood their area, it was disclosed today.

The fear was reported by Mrs. Dirk Van Meurs, 25 College Park.

Structural engineer Mark Falk will discuss the subject before a meeting of the residents at 7:45 p.m. today in room 24, Harlan Hall, between two Marin Junior College District board meetings, College President Stephen E. Epler announced.

Constant Vigilance Urged To Save Trees In San Rafael

Constant vigilance is necessary if San Rafael is to preserve its trees, Georgia Wintringham told Marin County Historical Society members at their annual meeting last night at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

Miss Wintringham, who was born in San Rafael, spearheaded a drive to preserve trees lining the city's streets and headed the first city tree committee, was one of several representatives of longtime Marin families who spoke at the meeting.

Alton Lerch of Novato was re-elected president of the society. Parker Wood of San Rafael, new curator of the society's museum in Boyd Park Lodge, was named executive vice president. Elected as regional vice presidents were Thomas J. Barfield of Bolinas, Frank B. Williams of Sausalito, Dr. Rodney B. Hartman of Mill Valley, and Waddell F. Smith of Bolinas.

Also elected a regional vice president was Capt. Adolph S. Oko of Point Reyes Station, the members being unaware that he had died of a heart attack less than two hours earlier, after coming to San Rafael to attend the meeting.

Elected to the board of directors were Mrs. V. J. Bloom, Mrs. Florence Donnelly, Mrs. Elie Dalmon and Mrs. Richard Keating of San Rafael; Mrs. H. F. Clouette of Sausalito; Dr. W. Scott Polland of Ross; Joseph B. Rice of Ignacio; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Graves of San Francisco; Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax; Mrs. Helen Goslinger and Elinor Burt of Mill Valley; Hugh Turner of Novato, and Mrs. Maude Gardner of Woodacre.

William Ortman, now an Oakland resident, told of early theatrical groups in San Rafael, including the players from Magnolia Valley (now the Dominica area). His recollections of early prize fighters who trained at Billy Shannon's place in San Rafael provided a swift change of pace.

Rice told of the shipping ventures of his grandfather, the first J. B. Rice, who swam to Marin in 1856 when his ship was wrecked off Bolinas, served as a trustee of the town of San Rafael and went to Sacramento as its representative in the 1870s.

Charter members introduced, besides Rice, were Mr. and Mrs. Bloom, Mrs. Fred Dickson, Edythe Foster, Mrs. Harry D. Johnson, Mrs. Victor Jones, Mrs. Thomas T. Kent, Mrs. John MacPhail, Mrs. Robert Moore, Mrs. Robert Murgatroyd, Mrs. H. J. Pedersen, Dr. Stanley, Catherine Timony, Mrs. Keating, Mrs. Frank B. Williams, Mrs. Robert Moore, Dr. Fred E. Sawyer and William Murray who has served as the society's treasurer ever since its organization.

Greetings were extended by County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker and San Rafael City Manager Dan E. Andersen. Hostess and chairman was Mrs. Donnelly, a founder of the society.

Mrs. Bradley Named In Father's Will

Mrs. D. W. Bradley of San Rafael, daughter of early screen star Richard Barthelmess who died last month, has been named in his will to share in his $450,000 worth of California property.

The actor's will, filed in a Los Angeles court yesterday, shows he left $450,000 in California real property. The bulk of the estate will go to his widow, Mrs. Jessica Stewart Barthelmess of New York City and to Mrs. Bradley, who resides at 11 Dolores Avenue.

The will signed Feb. 17, 1952, has already been admitted to probate in New York. Barthelmess, 68, died Aug. 17 in New York.

It's a small world . . . when your view of it is only 48 inches high!

The trail of a child's day in your town takes him to the school bus a block away, to the halls and classrooms and playgrounds of school, home again and out to seek adventure in your neighborhood.

What a child sees from his 48 inch vantage point creates enduring impressions. No matter what you may tell him about the nature of the world he is to grow up in, the stronger influence is what he sees and experiences right now.

Is his small world crowded, unfriendly, dangerous? Or is it what you would like it to be for him? Take a good look at it through his eyes.

The major part of his day is spent in school. It follows then that adequate school facilities are second in importance only to his home life.

Californians are proud of their schools. Most school systems make good use of sound financing with municipal bonds to expand and improve facilities for the growing student population.

Municipal bonds protect taxpayers in important ways. They spread the cost over long periods to keep tax rates reasonable. They hold down interest rates through competitive bidding to get the lowest rates available at the time.

Bank of America and its associated dealers are an important source of funds for new schools and classrooms needed for growing California communities.

It Seems NO ONE Wants To Play QB For 49ers

If the United States has an employment problem, San Francisco 49ers coach Red Hickey doesn't know about it.

All he's trying to do is get someone to take on a well-paying, short hours job as second-string quarterback for the 49ers. So far, two veterans have rejected the job, Hickey's dismissed another and he's shuffled a fourth in and out of the spot.

Ralph Guglielmi of the New York Giants and Lamar McHan of Baltimore told Hickey "No thanks" yesterday after they were acquired by the 49ers.

Guglielmi retired to run his Washington, D.C. insurance agency and McHan took his family back to Greenville, Miss., where he said he'll announce next week whether he's decided to report to San Francisco.

The 49ers had released veteran Sam Etcheverry Tuesday after a two-week trial. Bobby Waters, the No. 2 man behind John Brodie most of the season, was shifted to defense when Guglielmi was obtained and shifted right back to offense when Ralph said he isn't coming west.

Guglielmi said in New York that he was retiring and passing up a chance at a $437 National Football League pension because the 49ers wouldn't give him a no-cut contract.

Guglielmi, 29, a former Notre Dame star, said, "I wanted them to insure my contract and not go out there on a look-see basis. In a couple of weeks maybe John Brodie's arm would come around and they'd say 'I'll see you.'

"Or maybe they'd lose a couple more ball games and they'd clean house. They wouldn't go for any no-cut contract."

Hickey said he couldn't "see a boy making that kind of decision," then added that he's still looking for a reserve quarterback. He said he won't rehire Etcheverry.

Brodie has been bothered by a sore arm much of the year as the 49ers dropped five exhibition games and two league encounters. He's also been hampered for years by lack of pass protection.

As A Team, Dodgers Are Equal With Yankees In Bat Averages

(Second of a three-part series previewing the World Series between the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers, scheduled to start next Wednesday.)

CONNOLLY

As a team, the N.Y. Yankees have hit .252 so far this season. Actually the only .300 hitters are Mickey Mantle at .322 in 59 games, and Yogi Berra at .300 in less than 50 games. The Dodgers, as a team, are hitting .251.

Of the every day players, catcher Elston Howard is the best. He is hitting .286. He leads the club in homers with 28.

Joe Pepitone, the rookie at first base, has 24 homers and Mantle 14. Roger Maris has 22 with a .285 average.

OUTSIDE of Mantle, probably the best player on the N.Y. club is Tommy Tresh, who plays left field most of the time. If he'd have stayed at home last year the S.F. Giants would have won the World Series hands down. He was the Yankee standout. Tommy is hitting a robust .269 with 23 home runs.

Another fellow who has made a lot of big hits is Hector Lopez, who has filled in in the outfield when Mantle and Maris were hurt. He's hitting .251 and although the RBI total is only 50 there have been many game-winners among them.

John Blanchard, a catcher by trade, but who can fill in at first base and the outfield, is also a very dangerous long ball hittre. He's hitting .226 but has 15 home runs to his credit and has knocked in 43 runs.

BOBBY RICHARDSON at second base, Tony Kubek at shortstop and Clete Boyer at third are all polished infielders and light hitters, but in recent years all of them have hit exceptionally well in World Series games.

It all adds up to a team that is beautifully balanced. Somebody always takes up the slack and meanwhile they make few mistakes.

On a sound comparative basis the Yankee infield is much better than that of the Dodgers. Gilliam had a great year playing second and third base. Maury Wills is just an ordinary shortstop but a helluva aggressive, smart, and dangerous base stealer as well as being better than an average hitter. He is one of the two .300 hitters on the Dodger club. Outfielder Tommy Davis is the other Dodger .300 hitter, currently at .323 and leading the National League.

ALL SEASON the Dodgers have been experimenting with third basemen. They've tried hard to make outfielder Tommy Davis a third sacker but he falls pretty short and they shift him back and forth with Junior Gilliam.

I'd have to say that Elston Howard has the edge over John Roseboro or any other Dodger catcher. Howard is steadier.

Outfields between the Dodgers and Yankees are hard to compare because the Yanks never know, from day to day, who is, or is not, going to be their players.

BUT IF Tresh, Mantle and Maris were steady and playing regularly for the Yankees, they'd have to rate over Tommy Davis, Willie Davis, Frank Howard or anybody else on the club.

The Dodgers have alternated a lot with the outfield and it has paid big dividends. Frank Howard is a life saver, and when he cuts his eye-teeth in baseball, he may be one of the best. Meanwhile we have to string along with Wally Moon as his alternate and occasionally Lee Walls.

Which of course takes us back to Sandy Koufax, the Dodger southpaw blazer. He could win the series all by himself. He's a great, great pitcher.

YANKEES NAME STARTING PITCHERS

Whitey Ford (center), Jim Bouton (left) and Al Downing (right) of the New York Yankees will pitch respectively the first three games of the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers next week, Manager Ralph Houk announced today. Dodger Manager Walter Alston is expected to counter with Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Don Drysdale, in that order. The series starts in New York next Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Marin 'Cats At Albany Tomorrow

Marin Catholic High School's gridders, still fresh from a 24-0 opening game win, will leave tomorrow for a game at Albany High School slated to start at 3:30 p.m.

The Wildcats opened the season last Friday with a 24-0 blanking of Healdsburg High School at College of Marin Stadium. Although most of the other prep teams in the Marin Athletic League have three practice tilts, Marin Catholic has scheduled only two.

The Wildcats will open their league slate on Oct. 12, after drawing a first week bye.

If the opening game was any indication of things to come, tomorrow's tilt should see Wildcat halfback Lu Ercolini trying to run wild. He scored three of the four touchdowns in the Healdsburg victory.

Albany, a member of the Diablo League of the East Bay, lost to St. Elizabeth's of Oakland in its opener, 33-0 last Friday.

Mays (.260 In Mid-Year) Is Hot Threat For Bat Crown

When Willie Mays was batting .260 near mid-season, he seemed to have as much chance of winning the National League hitting crown as the New York Mets had of winning the pennant.

Now the San Francisco Giants center fielder is in the midst of the seven-way title fight and has the hottest bat of the lot.

The Giants lost to Philadelphia 6-4 yesterday at Candlestick Park but Mays slashed a single, two doubles and a triple in four appearances, raising his average five points to .317.

Teammate and batting championship rival Orlando Cepeda belted a three-run homer in the first inning but dropped to .319 with a 1-for-4 performance. The leader is Tommy Davis of Los Angeles at .323.

Mays, who compiled 14 and 13-game hitting streaks in August, has another 13-gamer going and went for 14 when the Giants and Phils met for the final time this afternoon.

Willie has cracked 16 hits in six games and has a September batting average of .413. He hit .387 during August and was named National League player of the month.

Not until Aug. 25 did Mays' season average climb above .300.

Since his four-day rest for nervous exhaustion in early September, Mays has failed to hit in only one of 17 games.

Jack Sanford and successors couldn't hold a 3-0 lead furnished by Cepeda. Roy Sievers rapped a solo homer in the fourth for the Phils and led off the seventh with a single.

When Don Hoak followed with a single and Tuesday night's hero, John Herrnstein, was sent in to pinch-hit, manager Alvin Dark brought on Billy Pierce. Don Demeter then batted for Herrnstein and homered over the left field fence.

Don Larsen came on and gave up a single to Art Mahaffey and home run to Johnny Callison. Mays scored after tipling in the eighth but the Giants got no closer. Mahaffey won his seventh game against ten losses and Pierce lost his 11th against three victories.

U.S. NETTERS LEAD BRITAIN

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (AP) —The United States took a 2-0 lead over Britain today in the interzone Davis Cup tennis semi-finals when Chuck McKinley defeated Mike Sangster, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5, and Frank Froehling beat Billy Knight 4-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the opening singles matches.

The U.S. now needs only a doubles victory Friday to clinch the series and enter the interzone final against India.

STENGEL WARNS

Yankees Beware: Koufax Amazing

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Casey Stengel had some real B-A-D news today for his old buddy, Ralph Houk, and he boiled it down to two words—Sandy Koufax.

"The fella is positively amazing and it almost takes a miracle to beat him," Stengel said of Koufax.

Casey was an eye-witness to Koufax' wizardry last night when the Dodger ace tuned up for his opening game World Series assignment by picking up his 25th victory and lowering his earned run average to 1.88 in a 1-0 decision over the Mets.

Sandy pitched only five innings but struck out eight to run his season total to 306. Already the National League record holder for strikeouts, Koufax also became the fourth major league pitcher ever to strike out more than 300 batters in a single season.

The only others to have done so previously were Rube Waddell of the Philadelphia A's, Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Koufax, who hurled 11 shutouts this season but wasn't credited with one last night because Bob Miller and Ron Perranoski finished up, opened the game by striking out the first three batters to face him.

He allowed four singles before leaving and the Dodgers scored the only run of the game, an unearned one, off luckless Roger Craig in the first inning.

Wally Moon scored from third base when Craig threw wild trying to pick Tommy Davis off first. Craig's error resulted in his 22nd defeat of the season compared with five victories.

There were some other interesting developments elsewhere in the National League also.

Warren Spahn won his 22nd game and the 349th of his career in pitching Milwaukee to a 9-5 triumph over Cincinnati; Art Mahaffey, making his first appearance since being injured on July 31, was credited with Philadelphia's 6-4 win over San Francisco; Houston was held to four hits by Tommie Sisk but still beat Pittsburgh, 2-1, and St. Louis snapped a six-game losing streak with a 5-2 victory over Chicago.

New 33-Foot Power Cruiser Ends Her Sea Trials In Marin Waters

A power cruiser new to the San Francisco-San Pablo Bay area—and one just equipped this week with the latest in electronic navigational and communiations gear—completed its sea trials here last Saturday.

The "Hubris," owned by George Saunders of San Rafael, boasts newly installed Bendix Marine automatic equipment. Recently refurbished by Seaway of San Rafael—Marin Bendix Marin distributors, also marine repairs—this craft is a 33-foot steel-hulled craft that sleeps six. She weighs eight tons (net), draws four and one-half feet. Built for heavy duty service, the boat was outfitted for pleasure boating as well as fishing by Saunders. Federally-documented, she is ideal for Pacific Coast waters. This is partly due to a cruising speed of 25 knots, and to the weight She also boasts a hot-water shower.

GEORGE SAUNDERS, his wife, Rose, and guests—including "Chet" Shumate, owner of Seaway—went aboard early Saturday for a day's Bay cruise that started from Dominic's in the morning and ended in the early evening. Lounging, fishing and refreshments were enjoyed—whim of the guest.

In outfitting his craft with top communications and navigational equipment, Saunders so far has installed a Navigator 550 radio and direction finder, a Skipper 372 radiotelephone, and A DI-5 depth sounder, all designed and produced by Bendix-Marine Department of The Bendix Corp., North Hollywood.

Still to be installed is an explosive gas detector built by Bendix-Marine and, eventually, Saunders hopes to have an MR-4 radar aboard.

THE NAVIGATOR 550 is a compact, portable model with 12 transistors. It included three bands (beacon, broadcast and marine), a null meter, true sense bearing, three-crystal monitoring frequencies and it weighs less than -10 pounds. It uses six regular flashlight batteries.

The radiotelephone Saunders chose is a six-channel Skipper 372, also built by Bendix-Marine. The broadcast band is 2-4.5 megacycles, with a 70 watt input and a 41?watt output. It features a squelch control and built-in noise limiter. A 12-volt unit, it receives on .5 amperes and transmits on 10 amperes under F.C.C. approval.

A 40-FATHOM depth sounder utilizes a flashing light to indicate the depths, with a "bouncing" beam showing, for example, schools of fish. A bronze transducer was installed in the Hubris' hull for the rugged DI-5, which weighs just 9.5 pounds.

A low-cost unit, the explosive gas detector senses all types of dangerous gases — gasoline, propane, butane, etc. —and warns of the danger by a flashing light and an alarm horn. The new MR-4 radar has a 7-inch tube, with scope graduations of ½, 2, 8 and 16 miles, and a 30-yard minimum.

It is a compact unit designed for simple installation and operation.

NFL Nixes Playoff With AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has quashed an informal proposal by the rival American League that the two pro leagues meet in a post-season championship playoff.

"We have no plans for such a game," was the only answer of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The comment came after AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said yesterday his league might make a formal proposal to the NFL for a playoff in 1964.

"We have indicated in the past that we would like to meet them in a playoff," said Foss at a press luncheon. "Always in the past, their answer has been 'We don't consider playing games with people who are suing us.' We sued them because we thought our case had merit, but we lost. Now that is out of the way."

The AFL lost an appeal Monday on its $10-million monopoly suit against the NFL.

The 4-year-old AFL has made numerous overtures in the past to the 44-year-old NFL about a playoff game, but nothing has ever been formally proposed. And the NFL always refused to elaborate on its "We have no plans for such a game" statement.

Seals Lose Opener 8-1

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, showing sparkling form around the net, trounced the San Francisco Seals 8-1 in an exhibition hockey game before 6,232 fans last night.

Bob Nevin led the Stanley Cup champions to victory with a pair of goals while Cliff Pennington scored the lone tally for the Western Hockey League champion Seals.

The Seals, who looked ineffective through most of the game, got away 26 shots on Johnny Bower and Kjell Svensson, who shared the goaltending chores. Svensson and Carl Oeberg, who scored one goal, are veterans of the Swedish National hockey team who were invited to the Toronto training camp this year.

The Leafs poured 44 shots at Seal netminder Bob Perreault. They jumped to a 3-0 lead and led 6-1 after 40 minutes of play.

Sacramento Makes Big Pitch For A's

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — President Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics was invited yesterday to move his American League franchise to the California state capitol.

The invitation was extended by Sacramento city councilman Thomas E. Murphy in a letter to Finley pointing out that "reports indicate that conditions in Kansas City may eventually dictate a change in your operation. . ."

Murphy asked the Athletics' boss to consider "Sacramento—the capital of the nation's No. 1 state—a baseball-hungry metropolitan center of 581,000 with a potential drawing area which includes over a million people. . ."

Sacramento's bid offered competition for the city of Oakland, which also has been mentioned as a new site for the Kansas City franchise. The Athletics moved to Kansas City from Philadelphia in 1955 and drew 1,393,054 their first season there. But attendance has since sagged.

Murphy said "California's great valley has long been known as a hotbed of interest in the game."

He noted the "false economy which results from one team—Los Angeles in this case—being so far removed from others in the league" and pointed to the financially successful Dodgers-Giants National League rivalry.

Sacramento has been without professional baseball since the end of the 1960 season when the Solons, a Pacific Coast League franchise, transferred to Hawaii.

The Triple-A team's biggest season at the gate was in 1949, with 449,583 customers. But the Sacramento area has grown considerably since then.

In other men's singles results, second-seeded Ron Barnes of Brazil disposed of Jack Darrah of Moraga, Calif., 9-7, 6-2, and Antonio Palafox of Mexico dumped Garth O'Malley, 6-2, 6-0, and Larry Axtell, San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4.

Whitney Reed of Alameda moved into the fourth round with an 8-6, 6-3 decision over Ron Preissman of Los Angeles.

In the women's division, top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil took care of Vicki Berner of Vancouver, B.C., and second-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., downed Cathey Gagel of Ohio.

Two More Letters Received On Smoking Your Salmon At Home

STEVENS

Two more letters regarding the smoking of salmon (and other fish) came in. One from Gordon T. True Jr., tells of a compact smoker that might interest those of you who haven't the time nor the inclination to build your own smokehouse. His letter follows:

"If your readers wish to smoke salmon at home in small quantities they might investigate one of the small home smokers equipped with electric heating units. I use the Herter Back Country Meat Smoker, Herters, Inc., Rural Route 1, Waseca, Minn. It is made of aluminum and imparts no off flavor to the meat.

"I FILLET my salmon, divide each fillet at the median line, and cut resultant strips into 10-inch sections, two of which will go on each of the three trays in my smoker. I then soak the fillets in brine (¾ salt to 1 qt. water) from one to three hours depending on size of fish.

"I dry well on a clean towel, put on plenty of coarse ground pepper (about twice as much as when preparing fish for oven), and place in smoker with electric heat only until dry to the touch. Then I put in the wood chips and proceed according to directions that come with the smoker.

"IF A REALLY sweet smoke is desired, rub fillets with a good coating of brown sugar (after the brine but before the pepper); put them in refrigerator overnight and then proceed as per instructions. I have smoked salmon with and without sugar this summer and like whiskey, it's all good. Smoking time varies from 15 hours to 36 hours, depending on size and fatness of the fish.

"I have found fish weighing around 12 pounds are the nicest to handle and the product is firmer and more sliceable than from large, fat salmon in the 30 pound class. Oh yes! The fillets are left with the skin on, of course, and the fillets are placed on the racks skin down.

"Knowing when the fillets are perfectly smoked is a matter of experience. When one learns to recognize the right combination of appearance, feel, and aroma—then one will have the right accompaniment to a martini.

"P.S.: I use hickory shavings which are available at sporting goods stores and some markets. One can get anything from sawdust to coarse chips. I prefer the middle ground. Oak makes a fine smoke either green or dry, and the fruit woods—apple, pear, are excellent. Green wood gives a slower, cooler smoke. Dry shavings or chips can be slowed down by dampening with water."

Robert Roy of Fairfax sent along a booklet of 22 pages which apparently was issued by "Netcraft, 2144 Charlestown Street, Toledo, Ohio." Within the pages of this booklet are several types of drawings of the smokehouses, directions on how to prepare the fish from the start to the finished product. It is a very comprehensive set of directions, and I must assume that Mr. Roy means that a copy may be obtained by writing to the Netcraft firm.

NO CHANGE in the local fishing picture. Bass in the S.F. Bay region are still plentiful. Salmon trolling somewhat spotty but some lunkers are being taken. Rockfishing is very good, and no detailed news anent deer returns except that already four human beings have been mistaken for deer and killed.

Congratulations to 3-year-old Celia Simpson of Larkspur for winning a prize at the Paradise Park Fishing Pier opening last Sunday, and to 10-year-old Richard Levy for catching the smelt that won him a prize, also.

Christopher, Negro Leaders Differ On 'Get-Tough Policy'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mayor George Christopher and Negro leaders differ over the need for "get tough" orders issued to police after a rowdy freedom march by Negro youngsters.

The mayor and the United San Francisco Freedom Movement issued statements yesterday.

The San Francisco Negro leaders said Christopher's remarks after Monday's abortive freedom march "confuse rather than clarify the means by which such events and the causes behind" them can be invetigated and avoided.

They referred to his orders to police to crack down when some Negro youngsters, lured by a false report of a freedom march that failed to move more ed to shoplifting after the than a couple of blocks.

The Freedom Movement said, "We would argue that closer attention by the mayor to the state of human relations in the school system might enable him to avoid making unjustified demands upon the police department and the Freedom Movement."

Christopher replied, "I expect all good people to keep law and order in San Francisco. I have no argument with Negroes. I am trying to help them . . . but I cannot give them the right to break the law wantonly at the expense of other citizens."

Mass Said For 32 Mexican Farm Workers

SALINAS (UPI)—A Requiem High Mass for the 32 Mexican farm workers who were killed in last week's train-bus collision was said here last night.

Some 3,000 mourners attended services at Palma High School auditorium.

Rev. Humberto Hermosa of Christ the King Catholic Church was celebrant.

The coffins of the dead were arranged in a cross on the auditorium floor.

The Mexican government last week arranged with three Salinas undertaking firms to handle the services.

Colors Are Code For Fire Hydrants

SHREVEPORT, Fla. (AP)—The varied colors of fire hydrants around Shreveport is not due to a shortage of paint. The city decided to repaint its 2,916 hydrants in code colors.

Color is determined by the size main the hydrant is connected with — red denotes six-inch and eight - inch mains; orange, 10 - inch and 12 - inch mains, and green is used for mains over 12 inches.

School May Delay On Sprinklers

Sausalito's Central School may not get a fire sprinkling system until next summer if a request for a waiver is approved by the state fire marshal.

Sausalito School District trustees Monday night asked for the waiver, saying the $25,000 installation now would interrupt the school program. Trustees put off a decision until 8 p.m. Monday, when they will meet jointly with Mill Valley School District trustees to discuss the proposed transfer of 1,000 acres in Tennessee Valley from the Mill Valley district to the Sausalito district.

The board heard a report from Morris Brown, principal of Manzanita School, on the ungraded program. Brown said both parents and teachers "are very enthusiastic" about the program, initiated this month. It combines pupils from first, second, third and fourth grades.

The board voted to apply to the State Department of Education for $40 per child to start a "mentally gifted" program.

Reporting Services Can Mean Bad News

MORRISTOWN, N. J. (UPI)—A new commercial reporting service here is bad news for the more than three million Americans who are chronic delinquents in paying for subscriptions and other mail order purchases.

The Hooper-Holmes Bureau puts the name of subscription or product purchasers through a Honeywell computer and they are automatically compared against a pool of credit delinquents.

Mother Makes Worst Of Possible Threats

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) —An angry mother was making the worst of all possible threats to her children at a local shopping center. "If you kids don't behave, I'm going to take away your batteries," she said.

Each of the three youngsters was carrying a portable transistor radio, playing full blast.

'INDIAN SUMMER' INDEED!

The Madrone Unit of the Friends of Arequipa members little guessed how appropriate their "Indian Summer" theme would be when they planned the luncheon and style showing held yesterday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. Mannequin League members modeled for the party, which included bridge, and whose proceeds will go toward a home for teen-age girls. Mrs. Donald Schwab served as chairman for the afternoon activities.

Family Unit Will Survive Current Century Pressure

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The current century puts tremendous pressure on the family as a unit, but despite its changing face, the family will survive, says one authority.

Family life is buffeted by urbanization, by interracial tensions, by unemployment in some parts of the nation, by more leisure time generally as automation increases, by preemption of the family role by organizations, and by the changing duties of the housewife.

Yet, says Dr. James P. Dixon, president of Antioch College in Yellow Springs, O., "It is the considered view of most anthropologists that the family is the most ancient of human social institutions and that in some form or other, it will survive."

Dixon examines the impact on families of our changing society in the current issue of the Journal of Home Economics.

THE CHANGES in our culture mean a shift in control, he says. "Decreasingly, then, is the family a unit that can physically and intellectually sustain itself," he said. "Decreasingly is the family able to determine the individual destinies of its members or the direction of the culture . . ."

Dixon is a member of a U.S. Senate committee appointed to study medical care for the aged.

He cited these data on families:

—The number of them is increasing. An increase of about 15 per cent from 1950 to 1960 brought the number to 45 million.

—Ninety per cent of the families in 1960 were white. Forty per cent had no children under 18. Most of the children were born before the parents reached middle age.

—Because the wife, who usually is younger than the husband, is subject to lower mortality rate, she is likely to outlive him. Widows outnumber widowers three to one.

—The long-term trend is toward smaller households with a decline in median size of households from 5.4 (persons) in 1790 to 3.1 in 1950.

"THESE DATA GIVE every evidence that the family is durable in its existence, but changing in its character," said Dixon.

"Children no longer are regarded as the social security of parents or the motive power of the economy," he continued. "Artificial control of pregnancy is the rule. Young persons tend to leave their family at an early age. Families are growing smaller, and contact years between members of more than one generation in a given household are decreasing."

Smaller families and earlier end to child-bearing provide more opportunity for women to plan careers outside the home, he said. Yet, he said, "one thing is certain—homemakers should be women. Present research supports the notion that women probably know more about the subjective side of the people around them than men do. They are more empathetic and intuitive than men. Everyone seems to agree that empathy is an important characteristic of family life.

"WHETHER THE SHIFT of women's interest from the home to the community and job will make for less family empathy is, of course, only speculation."

The Antioch College president concludes that "these changes in family organization need to be taken into account by parents, planners and professionals to the end that the benefits of the cultural evolution of man may be widely dispersed through the population.

"WE NEED NOT fear that taking these changes into account will destroy the family . . . in some form or other, it will survive."

They are Mesdames John Raskob, Robert Watkins and James Clark of Belvedere; Kenneth Lucas, Tiburon; John Degenhardt, San Rafael; Juan Hayes, Kentfield, and Robert Schultz, Mill Valley. Mrs. W. A TEA GIVEN IN TIBURON

The sun shone brightly as the Lawyers' Wives of Marin gathered at the home of Judge and Mrs. Richard Sims in Tiburon yesterday afternoon for a cup of tea and a greeting to the membership. From left are Mesdames Richard Clarke, Edward McFetridge, Richard Sims and Mrs. William MacKay, past president, pouring tea for Mrs. Allan Littman. Mrs. Joseph G. Wilson headed the committee for the day. (Independent-Journal photo)

'I Don't Consider I'm Career Woman,' Director Ansley Says

One of a series of articles on Marin's working women.

By DOROTHY NEWELL

"I want my daughter to have her own special star," was the answer by a parent to the question "Why do you want to send your youngster to nursery school?" on an application for a nursery school in Novato. The child was the youngest of several children in the family and the only one not in school.

"And I feel the same way about it," Mrs. Clinton G. Ansley of Novato, director of the North Marin Nursery School says. "Working with these children is my own way of getting a special star."

Jean Ansley, principal of the school for five years, was appointed director this year.

SHE WAS GRADUATED from the University of Minnesota with a degree in nursery school, kindergarten and primary education. But her career began when, as a bride, she and her husband, an Air Force Captain at that time, were sent to Hawaii.

There were no kindergartens in Hawaii and the nursery schools were a part of the community Chest agency.

There I found out what it was like to be a member of a minority group," Mrs. Ansley recalled. Of the 100 students in the nursery school only five were caucasian and as director of the school she was the only caucasian among the eight teachers.

WITH HER navigator husband gone a great deal of the time, she found the nursery school work very rewarding.

Six years ago, the North Marin Nursery School was opened. A non-sectarian organization sponsored by the Northland Assembly of God Church, the church went outside it's church membership to chose a principal—Jean Ansley.

JEAN IS AT the school five days a week, from 9 to noon.

"I don't consider myself a career woman, as I enjoy the work so much and in this way I can also be home with my family, which always comes first," she says.

"I particularly like teaching the nursery school children, the age group from three to kindergarten," Mrs. Ansley said. "This is the first time the children are away from home and we (the teachers) work very closely with the parents."

WHEN JEAN is not busy with her nursery school and her own children, Mark, 8, and Katharine, 10, students at Lynwood School, she is working for the San Jose School District as a member of the board of trustees. She has been a member since 1959 and last year served as chairman of the board.

Her husband also is a member of the teaching profession. He is assistant principal and eighth grade teacher at Pt. Reyes Station. He is presently working towards his doctorate in education.

'I DON'T consider myself a career woman as I enjoy the work so much . . . and can also be home with my family . . ." says part-time worker Jean Ansley, who is director of a nursery school.

70 Friends At Country Club Barbecue Brunch

Mrs. Louis Litchenstein of San Francisco, mother of Mrs. Edward Schulman of Terra Linda was hostess at a barbecue brunch for 70 friends Tuesday at the Marin Country Club in Novato. Mr. and Mrs. Schulman are dance instructors in Marin County and members of the Marin Country Club.

The guests, who came from San Francisco and various parts of Marin enjoyed a "steak-out," preceded by cocktails served around the pool. Games were enjoyed in the club's main lounge following the barbecue.

Glamor Moves Into Kitchen

Aprons have become so fancy that many a smart cookie baker is tying one on as a wrap-around skirt. The fashion rule for the kitchen and patio is to match the apron length with the skirt length, so that it is hard to tell whether anyone has a skirt on under it anyway.

Naturally, the party aprons are giddy, or zany affairs. An example is a hula-like profusion of grosgrain ribbons. Others are patched, appliqued, or fluttering with fringe.

Traditional shortie aprons in burlap make dishwashing gayer with floppy, gaudy felt flowers. One apron-type has its own matching terry cloth towel hanging on built-in waistband loops.

ARROW-STRAIGHT?

Several Points To Check When Buying A New Suit

"I am looking forward to buying a good suit this fall. What should I look out for when shopping for it."

First in buying a suit, there are several points you should always check:

1. The Label. A manufacturer who is known to you is your best assurance in buying a suit, for you know it will stand up to hard wear. If the suit also has a known fabric label, your assurance is doubled. (This goes for winter coats, too.)

2. The Workmanship. Are seams arrow-straight? Are the the seams arrow-straight? Are the sleeves set in without a pucker? Is the inside of the skirt as cleanly tailored and finished as the outside of the garment? Is the slide fastener set in smoothly? Is the waistband evenly stitched and firmly backed if it is a wide one?

3. The Details. Are the buttonholes carefully finished? Has the lining a pleat or extra fullness down the length of the back? (If not, it will soon pull out at the armholes.) Are the pockets well-finished on the outside, possibly interlined to hold their shape if needed for a particular stand-out style? Are the lapels correctly cut and reinforced? Does the suit have "hand-picked" seams (a mark of good tailoring for some styles)?

WHEREVER YOU LIVE, you should invest only in a suit that lives up to these standards. You will also need to consider the fact that your suit must tide you over "the edges" of two seasons—spring and fall — as well as carry you through the winter. With this in mind, select a suit that is medium weight rather than heavyweight . . . and your best choice in color might be in the neutral range, rather than dark, so that you can team it up with both fall and spring accessories for an ever-new look.

For town wear, select a light wool blend, light worsted, lightweight flannel, a chiffon broadcloth, gabardine, a lightweight tweed, flannel or worsted, or a suit-weight zibeline.

Books Will Last Longer With Minimum Protection

NEW YORK (UPI)—In proportion to the pleasure they give, books make few demands on the homemaker's time and energy. A minimum of care will protect their life and beauty.

Start by filling each bookcase shelf just enough to prevent the books from leaning on each other, while avoiding friction from crowding. Arrange them according to height.

BOOKS, LIKE PEOPLE, react to humidity. Too much dampness fosters mildew and overly dry air causes pages and covers to become brittle. If there is mildew, applying alcohol promptly will generally remove it.

To counteract dryness, keep a wet sponge in a copper bowl under the bookcase. Various lanolin-base oils can be used to keep a leather cover from drying.

Plain household grime also is an enemy of books. Simple but regular cleaning can prevent damage—destroyed texture and color.

The first step: dust a cloth or leather binding thoroughly. Then sponge the cover quickly with thick "dry" soap or detergent suds. If necessary, sponge off individual pages the same way.

RINSE-WIPE with a clean damp cloth, wipe with a dry cloth and stand the book on end until completely dry. Don't pile just washed books atop one another.

Black Furniture And Paisley Is New

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new look in home furnishings may well be black furniture and paisley fabrics, says fabric expert Zelena Brunschwig, of the American Institute of Interior Designers. She bases her forecast on a trend noted in Paris.

"Black lacquer furniture and especially reproductions of Boulle (cabinetmaker who worked in the Louis XIV style) furniture is very popular there, and it is only natural that this type of furniture will find a vogue here," she predicts.

"It is difficult to find original pieces of Boulle, but the reproductions are very good. It is charmingly used with adaptations of paisley motifs, particularly those done on black grounds."

Mrs. Brunschwig, who was a decorator with one of the best known houses before she became a style leader in the fabric field 20 years ago, has an eye for noting new fabric trends.

"Paisley has really been in vogue for about 150 years. But what has been so interesting about it has been the adaptations made by many countries. South of France fabrics described as provincial took their inspiration from paisley motifs, interpreting them in their own way to get fresh allure."

She found many original blocks in Provence and Alsace, adapting them for screen printing.

Britain turned out rich, opulent colors and designs, also using Kashmir designs as inspiration. The town of Paisley in Scotland gave them their name.

Paisley is the type of design that lends itself to any room in the house, she points out, and to curtains, furniture covers, pillows. It is a good fabric for amateur decorators because there is less chance to make mistakes.

ORIGINALLY PAISLEYS were printed on red, she says, exhibiting a beautiful red paisley bordered table cover.

"I liked this so much that I had it adapted for yard goods with a border on each side," she explains. Typical of the 11 new paisleys in her collection, it is a rich colorful design.

The resurgence of paisleys in recent months indicates a cycle that hasn't been felt since the Victorian era, she says.

"Since paisley designs were really taken from Persian and Indian motifs, it is even successful with Queen Anne and earlier periods of furniture because these prints were brought back by the East India Company in the early 18th Century," she explains.

THOUGH THERE is a general likeness and color, most paisley prints are unrelated to the true Kashmir shawls imported by the company. Small sections woven on looms were sewn together in a patchwork construction. Today's paisley designs are printed from European wood blocks or adapted for screen printing in modern dyes.

There are many popular striking motifs in paisley design including dates, iris, rosettes, seaweed, ferns and shells. The pine cone motif of the Kashmir shawls is usually bent like a windblown cypress with a lower section suggesting the rondel form popular in Persian art.

THE LOTUS IS a popular motif and when shown from a side view resembles an open fan. The motif known as honeysuckle is really derived from the palm tree, rather than from the honeysuckle we know. Many of the smaller patterns, often classified as Indian, are actually taken from 18th Century prints with a Chinese influence.

Novato Rainbow Girls Install Worthy Advisor And Officers

Jean Fagnani, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Fagnani of Novato was installed as worthy advisor of the Novato Assembly, 194, International Order of Rainbow for Girls Saturday.

The theme of the installation was "My Treasurers of Rainbow."

Her marshals were Joan Patterson, past worthy advisor and Joanne Fagnani, sister of the new worthy advisor.

Other installing officers were Kathy Marie Jones, installing worthy advisor; Sharyn Betts, recorder; Pam McWilliams, chaplain; Sherryl Kinchla, banner bearer; Cathy McBeath, musician, and Janet Fagnani, sister of the worthy advisor, bible escort. Mrs. Donald Davison was piano soloist and vocalists were Betty Tis, Cheryl Hook and Janet Fagnani.

JEAN FAGNANI

Officers who will serve with Jean are Sara Hughes, worthy associate advisor; Jo Ann Carey, charity; Barbara Gilliland, hope; Vicky Row, faith; Sue Westlund, recorder; Kathy De Brecht, treasurer; Karen Kruth, chaplain; Jean Tucker, drill leader; Audrey Mahler, love; Cindy Hunt, religion; Joanne Fagnani, nature; Marilyn Weindell, immortality; Sandy Graxiola, fidelity; Jo Ann Howard, patriotism; Linda Williams, service; Ellie Hewitson, confidential observer; Sandy Jones, outer observer; Kathy Faulkner, choir director, and Ellen Bussman, musician.

Mike Conway, senior councilor of Novato De Molay, is Rainbow beau. Rainbow dad is Kenneth E. Jones.

Older Women More Elegant

Elegance is most likely found in older women, designer Simonetta of Italy and Paris said here during a recent visit.

"A woman is truly elegant when she has found her own type and can play it up . . . elegance like everything in life must be worked for."

The fiery wife and designing partner of Fabiani was here to visit a suburban New Jersey store carrying her line. Of American department store shopping she said:

"I AM JUST not used to the way women here just pick off the racks and try on, do everything by themselves. They are so surprised when I speak to them and offer them help."

THE CUSTOMERS' biggest complaints, she told a trade press reporter, is "they say I don't think enough about fat people or old people. They want to know why a dress or suit doesn't come in size 18 or larger. . . . They don't seem to realize that I am just the designer . . . at a certain point the manufacturer takes over."

Just Trash

Now: An evening costume called "Trash." It features a black middy and long, slim skirt. A big white fox muff accents the outfit.

The Gaslight Era Is Coming Back In Specialty Fixtures

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Not only are homeowners cooking with gas these days, they're heating with it, cooling with it, disposing of their garbage by means of it and they're lighting with it again.

Indeed, historians of the future may well refer to the 1960s as the 20th century gas light era in America. Gas for fuel provides 29 per cent of the nation's energy requirements. Gas for cooking long has been the accepted thing in many homes. Gas for heating has enjoyed steadily increasing popularity and now gas air conditioning is growing by leaps and bounds. Many modern families dispose of their trash and garbage in odorless, smokeless, gas-fired incinerators.

And, strange as it may seem, the past five years has seen really tremendous growth in gas lighting.

THERE IS fashion excitement in the new line of fall sweaters and pants as Pantino sculptures flowers in a textured fluff top with flannel lined pants. Styled with long sleeves, boat neck and a gathered hem, the sweater's embossed effect is achieved by a new fabric treatment. The flowers are multi-colored on blue background. The pants come in grey, cranberry, blue, black, espresso brown, camel and artichoke green.

NEW SWEATER NECKLINE

A horseshoe neckline highlights Italian hand-knit bulky sweater imported by Pantino especially as a mate to the long-sleeve, turtle-neck shirt worn here with herringbone pattern lined pants with tapered leg. The sweater comes in espresso brown, indigo blue, wild cranberry and artichoke green as do the slacks. The shirt comes in bone, blue, pink, green, black, cranberry and gold.

Bathing Suits Grave Problem To Ethiopia Beauty Contest

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Ethiopia is planning to enter the next Miss Universe contest in the United States, but there are problems in selecting a candidate.

The choicest part of the local beauty contest to name Miss Addis Ababa may be held in a secret room with the doors locked.

Kebbede Asfaw, Assistant Minister of the National Theater, who is running the show, says, "We are very pleased to receive the invitation to participate, but bathing suits are a difficulty."

The minister explains that many Ethiopian girls, whose habits are sober, austere and conservative, would be reluctant to parade in such undignified costume before the huge crowds "that would be bound to turn up to enjoy such an unprecedented spectacle."

Asfaw's idea is to have a panel of elderly matrons from Addis Ababa's best society examine the girls' physical charms—and measurements—in a secret room and then pass along the statistics to the judges, in writing.

The 'Why Don't Theys' Goad Producers To Improve Goods

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Those 85,000 homemaker consultants are at it again, dogging manufacturers to improve their products.

Many of their suggestions are on packaging: some are about the product itself; others are purely wife-savers on the labor front.

The consultants are the part-time workers for National Family Opinion, Inc., a Toledo, Ohio, consumer research firm. Their newest list of "Why don't they?" ranges from improvements in rainwear to home sewing suggestions.

One housewife wrote, "Why don't they?" make plastic rain hoods with small shoulder capes attached for better protection in wet weather.

ANOTHER SUGGESTED that boys' shirt patterns correspond in size and measurements to ready-made shirts.

Still another asked manufacturers not to put so many pins in new garments, especially children's clothes where they are a "safety hazard" since it is hard to uncover all before a garment goes on.

One correspondent complained that many furniture manufacturers are sacrificing comfort for appearance in chairs — "the great majority today are too short backed and long seated," she wrote.

One complained of the non-uniformity of length for dress belts; that some were too long, while others barely met, in dresses of the same size.

OTHER "WHY don't they?" suggestions included:

Install all electrical outlets in new housing high enough to prevent the stooping, crawling and searching which go on in the older homes. Also place them away from the center of large wall areas, where inevitably the outlets are behind sofa and piano.

Make the appearance of dressing rooms in stores match the appearance of the dress department itself. The dress sections might be glossy, appealing and expensively done, but fitting rooms often look like the hangover of a bargain basement sale. Common complaint—pins on the floor, a hazard to the shopper who often sheds her shoes to step into a garment instead of pulling it over her head.

Put cotton lace trim on cotton clothes. Ever try to iron cotton at high temperature on the iron, then run the iron at the same heat over the synthetic lace trims? The lace usually melts against a heat too high.

MAKE LOOPS LARGE enough at the neck or collar end of sports shirts so the wearer can button without tearing off the loop.

Make loops in the center back of women's coats as they do men's, for secure hanging when regular coat hangers are not available.

Fasten the size label of a garment, especially in children's clothes, so that it will not pull or wash out. While at it, why don't they put sock sizes on both socks with an indelible dye? In homes where children's socks are nearly the same size, sorting becomes a problem.

MARKET SPECIAL waxed paper for making sandwiches, with perforations to mark the length needed for the average sandwich. When wrapping sandwiches for children's lunch, for instance, paper often is wasted because it's torn too long or too short.

Make baby food jars the same size at the top as at the sides so no food is left in the jar.

Manufacture a granulated no-calorie or low-calorie sweetener with the same bulk as sugar. Good for diabetics or dieters. Then, sugar-free cookies, cakes and other desserts could be made with favorite and familiar recipes and "sugared" desserts would be possible again.

Women Fool Experts, Not Buying Frozen Chickens

Experts who calculate buying whims of American women have been fooled again. The housewife is causing concern this time in the country's third largest agricultural industry.

Results reported in a depth survey of consumer food buying habits show that the ladies haven't been reacting the way they're supposed to when buying chicken. That's what three of the nation's leading universities found out in making the study.

With sales of most frozen foods on the rise, some producers in the two billion dollar poultry business have geared production to freezing birds to capitalize on a boom which the survey indicates hasn't materialized.

Food technologists and researchers attending the annual Poultry Science Assn. meeting on the Oklahoma State University campus here were told homemakers overwhelmingly prefer fresh chicken. University research teams in California, Minnesota and Iowa uncovered what was called a "pronounced prejudice" against frozen birds.

School Districts Work On Bypassing Of Kindergarten

By ELLEN BRY

Marin School districts are moving to put local, specific interpretations into a state law which allows 5-year-olds to bypass kindergarten if they meet certain maturity requirements.

Under a state law which became effective last Friday, youngsters who are at least 5 years old and who have entered public school kindergarten may be moved on to first grade.

They must have been in their kindergarten class long enough for the school staff to evaluate their physical, mental and social maturity and must be in the upper 5 per cent of their age group in mental ability.

In the Novato School District, trustees Monday night agreed on procedures to impleiment the law:

First would come teacher judgment of the child's social and mental maturity. The principal must concur with a teacher recommendation for promotion. A conference then is scheduled with the pupil's parents, who must agree to promotion ahead of schedule.

If the parents agree, the child will be given a standardized test of general mental ability, and his total qualifications will be discussed in a conference of teacher, principal and district psychologist.

The series of conferences are aimed at finding "if the student will profit by placement in the first grade," Asst. Supt. Paul C. Moble explained. The school staff would decide whether first grade classes have progressed too far for a newcomer to catch up.

The deadline is similar to those set in other districts.

Fairfax School District has set a two-month deadline from the beginning of the fall term, to insure the new first grader would not be left behind in his new class.

Trustees of the Larkspur School District adopted a policy stating that the proposal for promotion to the first grade may be instigated by either parent or school staff.

But if the parent requests that his child be moved ahead, the parents must pay for testing, as the district does not employ a psychologist, Supt. Milton S. Cohen explained.

The test would be compared to national averages. A conference of parent, teacher and principal then would be held, at which all would have to concur on advancing the child.

Larkspur district also set a Nov. 1 deadline for such promotions.

Trustees of the San Rafael district will consider local rules at their meeting Oct. 8, including a proposal that the staff attempt to limit promotions to the first two months of the school year.

Trustees of the Mill Valley district also will take a look at a proposed local policy at their meeting Oct. 14.

The phraseology of the Koran may not be altered and translations are never used in mosques.

Youth To Speak On Rights Drive

Robert Nelson of Mill Valley, a recent graduate of Harvard University, will speak on his observations of the civil rights campaigns he saw on a trip to Mississippi he took this summer at a meeting of the Sleepy Hollow Forum at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Sleepy Hollow School.

Nelson will soon leave for a Peace Corps asignment in Nigeria.

Marin Study Of Multiple Government Units Timely

Republican State Committee Chairman Caspar W. Weinberger warns of an alarming trend in California city government consisting of "the gap between the ever-increasing size of our cities and the lack of any improvement in the organization of our city and county governments to deal with this growth."

He finds here the basic lesson of "The Phantom Cities of California," concerning which we commented in generalized fashion last Thursday.

This specific point about lack of improvement in local government is especially pertinent in Marin County because of the start just made on a survey of possible savings through amalgamation of "multiple government units," including our numerous special districts in particular. But there are broad implications touching the city and county structure.

"In the long run, my inclination is for a city and county of Marin," said Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker in moving that the survey be undertaken. Work is now under way by County Administrator Alan Bruce teamed with County Counsel E. Warren McGuire and Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell, with a Dec. 10 deadline for report.

Weinberger calls attention to a study of problems in European cities by a noted author and architectural critic, Alan Temko, who cited the immense regional cities he found in Europe, including "the agglomeration of 17 million people which has spread from historic England to cover much of southeastern England."

California Tomorrow, sponsor of the "Phantom Cities" pamphlet, points out that 75 per cent of the enormous urban development that has taken place in California since the end of World War II has taken place outside the established cities.

We have one new city government in Novato, but already a virtual city is about to start nearby. An incorporation effort is under way on the Tiburon Peninsula. But we still don't really know what is best. Can it be that things would go better with a regional City of Marin envisaged by Banker-Supervisor Leydecker? Would greater efficiency compensate for losses in local controls?

Certainly Marin takes a wholesome approach toward such problems. There is a general realization of the need to study, to plan, to keep in motion. Our numerous overlapping districts seem especially in need of attention, as witness such situations as the recently cited maximum-taxed area in Mill Valley, where residents pay for two fire protection organizations.

As a rule, when the facts of problems are fully brought out, solutions begin to appear.

'Red Light' For Commercial Red Lights

Certainly the outdoor advertising people have a grain of right on their side about that matter of red lighting in signs. It's inconsistent for there to be two rules on the subject in Marin County — one for most of the cities, another for unincorporated areas.

But rather than abandon a well-considered county ban on red signs, why don't the cities tighten up their restrictions? Novato already follows the county rule.

Red lighting should be kept to such uses as emergency signs and traffic signals. Promiscuous use for all manner of commercial purposes, as is still allowed in Marin cities with the exception of Novato, is confusing and sometimes dangerous.

This is one of many fields in which there should be prompt consideration as to what is the proper rule, then universal adoption of it.

Presidential Promises Never Produce A Balanced Budget

By LYLE C. WILSON

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S promise to balance the federal budget with revenue generated by tax reduction would arouse more enthusiasm among the taxpayers if similar solemn promises had not so often been made and broken in the past 30 years.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's promise to balance the federal budget was an annual affair until it became an embarrassment to him and to his party.

He was elected in 1932 on a budget-balancing promise that also was a phony. The 1932 Democratic platform not only promised a balanced budget but pledged a 25 per cent reduction in government spending. Believe it or not!

FDR quickly abandoned his platform just as President Kennedy has turned away from the fiscal pledges of his 1960 presidential platform.

KENNEDY AND the platform promised a balanced budget and laid out a program to achieve it. One important part of that program was higher taxes if necessary.

The Roosevelt years spanned from March, 1933, to April, 1945. Every one was a deficit year in which FDR borrowed billions to pay government bills. Four of those were war years.

Kennedy will rack up four consecutive federal deficits in his first term and at least two more in his second, if he is re-elected. Administration economists concede treasury deficits until fiscal year 1967.

On the record of comparatively recent experience, a politician's promise to balance the federal budget isn't worth much. Kennedy refuses to consider reduced spending while speaking only in the generalities of budget balancing.

The conservative - minded citizens contemplate the steadily shrinking value of the U. S. dollar and the rotting effect of endless budget deficits on the dollar's purchasing power.

THE BUREAU of Labor Statistics has reported that since 1959 the U. S. dollar has lost 6.4 cents of its purchasing power.

Compared with the dollar of 1949, the July 1963 dollar had shrunk by 23.9 cents. Compared with the 1939 dollar the shrinkage now is 54.8 cents, the purchasing power being calculated at 45.2 cents.

A 45-cent dollar means that it costs more than twice as much to live today than it did 24 years ago. This dollar rotting process has slowed considerably since the lushly loose Truman years, but the shrinkage continues.

The alternative to a budget balancing program would be continued borrowing until the public debt became unmanageable and unbearable. At that point there would be no alternative to a tremendous devaluation of the U. S. dollar to dissolve the debt.

Such dollar devaluation would collapse the first line of U. S. defense.

Fire Chief Owen Given Support

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I wish to protest against your handling of the news concerning the Tamalpais Valley Fire Department, and its Chief, Bud Owen.

Though my personal dealings with the fire department have been minor, my dealings with the community are great, and the effects of your news coverage are clearly seen.

Well, you covered the charges, and the claims against Chief Owen, but after they had been proven false, only a small notice appeared saying that the residents of this valley were sticking with the chief.

Again these charges come forward, and your paper is only too happy to print them. This smacks of trial by ordeal, a thing we civilized folk have rejected, at least in principle.

I do not deny your paper the right to hold a bias. Obviously, men with real opinions cannot help but do so, however, if you must hold a bias, you should clearly state your opinions on your editorial page, so that people expecting a reasonably accurate account of the happenings of the day, may understand how they might be colored.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your article last Friday concerning a meeting of the Tamalpais Fire Commission seemed to put Fire Chief Bud Owen in a rather bad light. Many Tam Valleyites do not share this opinion.

We know Chief Owens as (1) a customer, where he is most courteous and a very shrewd buyer for the fire department; (2) as residents of Tam Valley we know personally that he is a hard working, dedicated fire chief.

He does much work toward fire prevention, as well as building up a fine department that is well-ranked nationally for a place of this size.

Perhaps we can have an article in the Independent-Journal a little more favorable to our fire chief.

Appreciation Is Voiced

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As president of one of the recipient agencies benefiting from the opening of Gary's Loch Lomond Market, I would like to publicly express the appreciation of the Marin County Heart Assn.

Mr. Gary's public spirit and thoughtfulness are certainly to be commended. To my knowledge, he is a "first" in Marin County to give before receiving and we wish him the best of luck in his business venture.

I would also like to express our appreciation to those who bought tickets to benefit the Heart Assn. and to the hard-working members of the Rebekah Lodges who helped sell them in our behalf.

For A Firm Master Plan

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As a homeowner in San Rafael, specifically Terra Linda Valley, I wish to oppose any effort to zone land areas immediately adjacent to, or within single dwelling areas, for purposes of constructing multi-dwellings. It is not that I oppose the plan to provide acceptable type dwellings, but rather that construction which would tend to destroy or mutilate the beauty of this county is not desirable.

Where is a firm, solid master plan for this area? Many have been proposed but is there one which will be unbending? Are we going to slide along for year after year on a "proposal" without saying this is our plan, this will be?

I have had opportunity to select a permanent address at any location in the world. I not only selected the Bay Area, but narrowed down to Marin County. Why? Natural beauty, low industrial incident, proximity to a great metropolitan area, and a chance to enjoy life and privacy when I wish.

Now someone wishes to mutilate a hill and build dwellings to house many in a small area, completely surrounded by single family dwellings, a school and a church. Please help my neighbors and myself to oppose this move.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Rare and eagerly prized by connoisseurs is a good double pun. A beauty was perpetrated by a guest at a San Francisco hostelry. Several chess players had formed the mabit of staging daily contests in the lobby and a crowd of idle spectators gathered to watch them. The manager, noting that the spectators volunteered plenty of criticism, but never ordered one drink or bite to eat, ordered them cleared off the premises one afternoon.

At the height of the resultant hullabaloo, a lady asked, "What's happening?" That's when the guest contributed his classic: "It's nothing ma'am! just the manager pulling his chess nuts out of the foyer."

A man with a passion for yeast was just receiving an order of same in a health restaurant when a clumsy waiter bumped into him. The powdery yeast went all over his clothes. The title of this sad little tale is "Yeast Meets Vest."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

World Realizes U.S. Is Trying To End Its Discrimination

BELGRADE — U. S. delegates to the Inter-Parliamentary Union have found world opinion responsive to the progress being made to end discrimination against the American Negro.

It is a welcome and refreshing experience. Racial tensions was one of the potentially explosive items on the agenda of this 52nd conference of the elected lawmakers from 59 nations. Most of the U. S. Senators and Congressmen expected to get bruisingly beat over the head by the African and Asian spokesmen and by the Communists.

They weren't.

THERE WERE, of course, critical exchanges, but, for the most part, the debate centered upon racial injustice wherever it is found against whomever—white or black—it is practiced.

The delegates from the unaligned states shunned the usual Soviet tactic of trying to center opprobrium on the United States. The Russians took a few pokes at America—as when the Soviet delegate charged we were "suppressing the Eskimos." Sen. Ernest Gruening, D., of Alaska, took care of that. On the main, the Communist bloc orators were bland.

This non-explosive approach to racial matters reflected two circumstances:

1—The decision of the Soviet Union to play everything low-key and cozy in the wake of the test ban, in the hope of extracting from the more mellow climate some one-sided diplomatic dividends.

2 — The recognition by most of the delegations at this world forum that notable headway has been made and is being made in the U. S. to give the Negroes equal rights, equal opportunity, and equal protection of the law.

EVEN THE Bulgarian delegate, whose voice may be his own, but whose words are Moscow's went so far as to say "the U.S. is moving to solve its Negro problem."

It is evident that the continuing actions in Washington to enforce steady integration of the public schools have made a considerable impression around the world.

There is an awareness among nearly all of the parliamentarians here, representing millions of people concerned with the racial question, that President Kennedy is deeply committed to strengthening civil rights for all Americans, including Negroes. The expectation is that the U. S. Congress will, in the end, support him.

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D.-Mass.) took pains to fill in some of the gaps in the knowledge of most non-Americans about the economic status of American Negroes. He pointed out that the average income of Negroes in the U. S. is higher than the average income in most European nations—and is on the rise.

"WE ARE DETERMINED," he said, "to clean our hands of racial prejudice so we can go before the world with deeds to match our words."

Senator Kennedy was widely believed.

A Soviet spokesman, V. Ouvatchan, told the conference that there was not a flicker of discrimination against anybody for any reason in the Soviet Union.

When the Israeli delegate charged the Soviets with widespread and persistent anti-Semitism, the Russian reply was that that was just dreamed up by hostile newspapers. He called it a lie.

He said everything was just perfect in the Soviet Union. Mr. Ouvatchan was not widely believed.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Kennedy Would Curb Diem, Democrats Split On Policy

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There's a lot more behind President Kennedy's pressure for "reforms and personnel changes" in the South Viet Nam government than just an effort to end President Ngo Dinh Diem's bloody dispute with the Buddhists.

The President and his chief foreign policy advisers are using the internal dissension in South Viet Nam as a cover for their efforts to oust Diem or strip him of control over military operations against the Communist Viet Congs.

Since Diem—under a plan prepared by his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu — began sending guerrillas into North Viet Nam in June, powerful forces within the administration have clamored for the President to curb the strong anti-Communist leader.

HEADED BY Dr. Walt Rostow, chairman of the State Department Planning Council, this group of advisers argued that Diem's strategy of carrying the war into the "privileged sanctuary" of the Viet Congs in North Viet Nam could cause the fighting to "escalate" into a bigger war.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, head of the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon, who favors the initiative by Diem's forces, violently disagreed with the views of the Rostow group, but President Kennedy accepted the diplomatic rather than the military view.

On White House orders, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge requested Diem to quickly end these "across-the-border" raids on the grounds they might "enlarge" the present conflict and involve the U.S. in a war with North Viet Nam.

Reacting with fury, President Diem flatly refused to accept this U.S. direction, countering with plans not only to continue the raids but to step them up to meet new Communist military threats.

SEEKING NEW HELP — President Diem also notified the White House that he was opening talks with a representative of Chiang Kai-shek on his offer to send Chinese Nationalist troops to South Viet Nam from Formosa for both training and combat purposes.

This defiant show of "independence" by Diem so infuriated President Kennedy that he authorized an undercover effort to curb control of military operations of the South Viet Nam president by ousting Nhu.

When agents of the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department failed to induce Vietnamese military chiefs to take control, the President back-tracked and ordered the covert operation temporarily abandoned, shifting to a policy of diplomatic pressure on Diem.

IN SUPPORT of this new strategy, the Rostow group got boyish Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to denounce Diem on the Senate floor and introduce a resolution calling for Congress to cut off aid to his government.

The Church resolution, which is now pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was approved in advance by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Rusk before it was introduced in the Senate. The President told Church that he thought the resolution could be used to bring new pressure on Diem.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Army engineers promised that 250,000 cubic feet of mud will be taken from the San Rafael Canal to provide a six-foot depth in the 1.4-mile inner channel and eight-foot depth in two miles of outer channel.

Thirteen businessmen, labor representatives and San Rafael Chamber of Commerce members petitioned for selection of a site near the Corte Madera Wye for the proposed Marin fairgrounds.

20 YEARS AGO

Ross Valley Players held a roller skating party and announced formation of a choral group and an orchestra, headed respectively by Jeanette Morris and Allen Zeiss.

San Rafael police court announced collection of $450 in a single week through fines for drunk driving.

Made-In-Marin Space Fiction Might Turn Out All True

HAVE THEY SHOT anybody else up into space lately?

As a science fiction fan I'm inclined to be blase towards the Americans and Russians flung into orbit, the bouncing of electric impulses off the moon, pondering over possible human life on Venus, etc.

The science fiction novels and short stories I've read have gone much farther than developments reported in newspapers.

Science fiction not only relates adventures in space ships that fly to other planets and star systems trillions of miles away, but tells of mutants such as telepaths and humans who can fly on their own power.

THERE ARE devices to send the hero back and forth in time. Such characters often belong to an inter-galactic police force. Some are abler and tougher than James Bond, Agent 007 in the Ian Fleming yarns that President John F. Kennedy reads.

There are stories of parallel time systems, of anti-gravity devices, force fields that can stop the toughest shelling.

Most space ships in fiction today have dinguses that throw them into hyperspace after going off-planet, sending them vast distances at the speed of light or faster.

Some stories tell of the earliest life on our planet. Others describe vegetables that take over the world, driving man near to extinction much as we have about wiped out the buffalo.

NUMEROUS AUTHORS have speculated on life hundreds of centuries in the future when man's history has become amusingly garbled and Earth is seen as a quaint and lovable — but stupid — entity that blew itself up.

There are characters frozen for centuries, transported many parsecs and brought back to life. There are weapons called mind probes that wipe out a victim's memory. There are matter transmitters: A person stands on a platform and is dematerialized at this end materialized at the other end. There are stories of our sun's going nova—exploding.

There are robots that cannot be told apart from humans. There are yarns about planets run by brain machines. There are planets peopled entirely by women. There are adventures of cooperation between man and other types of lifeforms when discrimination among humans is forgotten.

NOT ALL such stories can be dismissed as escapism.

The atom bomb existed in science fiction long before it was made in the United States and used to blow two Japanese cities to Kingdom Come. Brain machines are here now! Magazines carry ads about phones with which such machines talk to each other cross-country.

"Brave New World" and "1984" are science fiction. So are stories in Ben Hecht's underrated "A Book of Miracles."

MARIN HAS two science fiction authors that I know of: Jack Finney of Mill Valley, author of "The Third Level" and other works, and Philip K. Dick of Point Reyes Station, author of "Solar Lottery" and other novels.

A clergyman friends says science fiction is heavy in spiritual values. I'm inclined to agree.

The ancients held that man can accomplish what he can imagine. The science fiction writers do a lot of imagining. I'm inclined to feel they reach for far frontiers as surely as any lab man who ever lit a Bunsen burner under a new concoction.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Translation Gadgets Pretty Smart But Can't Spell

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I never lose an opportunity to seize upon something that human beings can still do better than machines.

Recently, I have been reading quite a bit about the development of translation machines.

These are electronic computers that are multi-lingual and can make rapid translations from one language to another. The big show-offs!

I was gratified to note, however, that the machines are having trouble with spelling, pronouns and idioms, even as you and I.

IN FACT, they can't begin to handle idioms as well as human translators, as witness the following two examples:

1. A human interpreter employed by the United Nations to translate English into Spanish ran up against the phrase "once in a blue moon." A literal translation would not have meant much in Spanish, so he changed it to "every time a bishop dies."

2. A translation machine was given the expression "out of sight, out of mind" to convert to Japanese. It came up with the Japanese characters for "invisible, insane."

This was a clear cut victory for the human race. Such victories are rare these days and we should cherish them while we can.

AT A RECENT hearing by a House Education Subcommittee, examples were shown of a computer's handiwork in translating Russian and Chinese into English.

In places, the poor thing's spelling was atrocious. It rendered "capacity" both as "capacityy" and "capaccityi" before finally settling down to eight letters.

But what amused me the most was the way it flubbed the pronouns. Being unable to decide which pronoun was correct, it would occasionally list all the alternatives.

Thus, when a pronoun was encountered, the machine would print "him/his/it/its" or "her/it/hers/its." Which, of course, is the coward's way out.

I HAVE OFTEN wished that I could handle "who/whom" in that manner, but we humans are not permitted to escape that easily. We have to go ahead and pick the wrong one.

Among the material translated by the machine was an article originally printed in Red China. One of the key paragraphs came out like this:

"Soviet Union successfully launch artificial cosmos stellar body but American imperialism then many times failure."

College Community Music Groups Still Have Openings

Singers and instrumentalists may still find openings in the community music organizations of the College of Marin.

Violin, viola, wind and percussion players are needed for the community orchestra, which already has more than 40 members, director John Myers reported. Rehearsals are at 8 p.m. Mondays.

More than 50 persons already have signed up for the community band, but there still are openings, especially in the clarinet, trumpet and percussion sections. Practice sessions are at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

More singers also are needed in the community chorus which practices at 8 p.m. Tuesdays. Some 110 persons already have signed up for the chorus but basses are particularly needed.

FRESH AIR EXERCISES—Girl students at Terra Linda High School are crowded onto walkway for physical education clases on rainy days because there is no girls' gymnasium. The San Rafael High School District proposed 50-cent tax increase, if passed, will provide a new gym for the girls, among other things. Physical education teacher Pat Simmons (right) is entirely in the open.

The girls at Terra Linda High School are getting plenty of outdoor exercise these days because the boys are using the school's gymnasium.

Since the school enrollment has soared from 750 students in 1960 to 1,718 this year, there just isn't enough gymnasium for all.

The girls have locker space but the funds originally allocated for a girls' gymnasium have been diverted to classrooms.

If the voters of the San Rafael High School district approve a 50 cent tax increase in the high school district's 1.25 general operating tax Oct. 8, part of the funds will go toward construction of a girls' gymnasium and an industrial arts building at Terra Linda by 1968 according to Frank M. Parker, tax campaign chairman. The rate increase would be effective next year. On top of the operating tax rate are over-ride taxes and debt payment, which add 43 cents this year.)

The cost of the two buildings and site preparation is estimated at $400,000; about $255,000 for the gymnasium, $126,900 for the shop and $20,000 for site preparation.

In fine weather, the girls have physical education classes on various court and outdoor facilities, but the rainy season will present a problem, Mrs. Pat Simmons, gym teacher, reported.

During the first seasonal rain recently the girls went swimming or joined in exercises along a covered walkway outside the locker room.

The two industrial arts shops at the school are accommodating 360 students, but approximately 190 boys were unable to enroll in shop courses this semester because of lack of space, Parker said.

Terra Linda High School will add 28 clasrooms this year in an attempt to keep pace with student needs, he said. "If voters approve the proposal on Oct. 8, Terra Linda will be large enough to accommodate 2,000 students plus an addi- conditions."

Voters in the San Rafael Elementary School District also will be asked to approve issuing 3.9 million dollars in elementary school bonds.

Food For Freedom 'Success'

Food and clothing to fill a 40-foot trailer-truck has been collected by the Food for Freedom drive in Marin, co-chairman Mrs. Joyce Gross said today. In addition, $500 in cash has been collected.

Food and clothing collections are closed, Mrs. Gross said, but fund donations will be accepted through Oct. 12 by writing to Food for Freedom, P.O. Box 406, Mill Valley.

The drive to aid impoverished Negroes in Mississippi was "extremely successful," Mrs. Gross declared.

Robin Nelson of Mill Valley, who plans to enter the Peace Corps Oct. 4, delivered the $500 check to Greenwood, Miss., Sept. 18 and observed conditions among civil rights workers there. His expenses were paid by 25 Marin County families.

Nelson is to speak at several evening coffee meetings to be held next week in Marin homes.

Bufano Stripped Of His $50,000

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sculptor Beniamino Bufano was stripped of his $50,000 jury award for two statues made while working for the old Works Progress Administration yesterday when Superior Judge Charles Perry set aside the decision at the request of the city attorney.

City Atty. Thomas M. O'Connor said the judge's action vindicated the city's position that the only dispute in the case was ownership of "Torso" and "Bear" statuary, not the value.

Bufano's attorney, Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere who won Bufano the first sizable amount for any of his giant statues, said he will appeal.

In the late 1920s closing machines for sealing filled tin cans could handle only up to 75 cans per minute. Modern equipment, the Can Manufacturers Institute reports, has increased the rate to 1,200 per minute.

SURPRISE! DOE DROPS IN FOR DINNER

ALTADENA (AP)—The Harold Bisners got quite a start from an unexpected dinner guest.

A 120-pound doe jumped through a plate glass window of their home as they were preparing to have dinner Tuesday night, ran wildly about the living room and then jumped back out through another plate glass window.

The deer then ran into a neighboring yard, trailing blood from several deep cuts. Sheriff's deputies shot the animal when it collapsed.

Deputies said the doe came down from the nearby San Gabriel Mountains.

Dixie Group Backs Tax Hike

The Dixie School District Coordinating Council has endorsed the proposal to increase the San Rafael High School District's operating tax limit next year from $1.25 to $1.75.

The proposal will be voted on Oct. 8. It does not affect over-ride taxes and bond redemption, which this year add 43 cents to the rate.

John Freschl, president of the council, said it is "convinced that the high school district (which includes Dixie) needs additional funds to continue the educational program and to meet building needs."

Young Named Compensation Fund Manager

R. A. Young of Mill Valley has been appointed general manager of the State Compensation Fund of California effective Nov. 1 succeeding Earl R. Howard of San Francisco.

Young has been with the state fund for 28 years and has been assistant general manager for the past eight and one-half years. For 17 years he has been living in Mill Valley and commuting to the San Francisco office.

He is vice president of the American Assn. of State Compensation Insurance Funds and a member of the rehabilitation committee of the International Assn. of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions. He also is lay leader of the Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Howard will retire Oct. 21 after more than 33 years of service with the state fund.

Point Reyes Cow Rated 'Excellent'

A registered Holstein cow named Ideograph Burgov Steps 4998035, from the herd of Marvin L. Nunes, Point Reyes Station, has been given an "excellent" rating, the highest awarded by the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America.

The designation is based on body conformation and only 548 of the 65,000 registered holsteins in the United States are so rated.
